100 to 1. 80 Treaties Mean Zero. Foch and Napoleon. Wall Street's Little Chill.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GREGALACH, 100 to 1 shot, won yesterday's Grand National. That has only happened once before in 90 years.

A column of fire by night, cloud of smoke in the day, or a heavy fall of manna would not excite England as much as that 100 to 1 victory. Unless you have wasted money and time on horse race gambling, as millions do in England, you can't imagine what that excitement is.

SIGNING a treaty of "conciliation and arbitration" between the United States and Rumania, Secretary Kellogg has signed his eightieth peace treaty, beating William J. Bryan's record.

EIGHTY peace treaties give cause for rejoicing.

Eight thousand good airplanes, 500 good submarines, plus the biggest and fastest cruisers, to worry surface ships in case of war, would give more cause for rejoicing.

Ask Belgium what a treaty amounts to.

MARSHAL FOCH tomorrow will lie under the Arc de Triomphe, hundreds of thousands of French men and women walking past his coffin and the tomb of the "unknown soldier."

Interesting contrast, the best known of soldiers sleeps beside the humble man whose name is not known. And soon, as time goes on this earth, the name of Foch, generalissimo of several nations and 10,000,000 men, will be, like that of the nameless soldier, unknown.

FOCH will lie under the gilded dome of the Invalides, where old French soldiers, some dating back to the Crimean War, proudly show visitors things worth while.

For a little while they will show the tomb of Marshal Foch. Then attention will turn again to the great dominating tomb where the ashes of Napoleon lie under heavy marble. He will be remembered when Foch is forgotten.

Human beings remember and admire their great tyrants and adventurers and soon forget faithful servants.

YESTERDAY was Wall Street's day to have a chill. From two to 10 points were shaken out of prices. Today the street may have another fever. That's how it goes with "chills and fever" patients.

BROKERS are borrowing about $160,000,000 more than a few days ago, carrying stocks on margin.

And our best financial minds are shivering and shaking.

Why they shiver and why they shake is not clear.

THE real estate of New York City alone could be conservatively mortgaged for an amount greater than all the brokers' loans combined. Are not loans, having as their security the railroads and industries of the United States, as safe as mortgages on real estate in one American city?

UNCLE SAM at least has reason to be pleased with stock speculation. Stock profits reflected in income tax payments will increase the government income this year by $100,000,000.

THIS is a labor-saving age. Yesterday, opposite 48 West Fortieth street, New York, where Mrs. Anna G. Schmidt changes stout ladies into thin ladies, a blind beggar held out his lead pencils.

Before him on a tray suspended from a rope around his shoulders he carried a talking machine playing dismal tunes, calculated to arouse sympathy.

It could have been made to say, "Help the blind and have a clear conscience," or anything else required.

THE Mexican rebel leader, Gen. Jesus Maria Aguirre, is captured and executed by a firing squad. His country will admit Aguirre's sincerity. He had much to live for and might well have placated the government in power. He gave to his son, 17 years old, a magnificent ranch of 300,000 acres with 10,000 head of cattle. It is expected that the property will be confiscated as that of a rebel.

THIS writer is assured by Father Parsons, editor of the national Catholic periodical, "America," that the present revolution in Mexico is not based on any religious question or resentment; that, in fact, many leaders of the revolution are notorious enemies of the Catholic church in Mexico. Some powerful motive must influence men that, like Aguirre, risk and sacrifice life and great possessions for the revolutionary cause.

ATLANTA reports several deaths in an Alabama school house destroyed by a tornado.

The whole country sympathizes with Alabama attacked simultaneously by floods and high winds, and will want to offer any assistance needed.

NATURE'S forces are no respecters of buildings.

In Porto Rico the recent great windstorm destroyed 1,400 schools that the Federal government plans to reconstruct.

'Pow-Wow Healer' Jailed in Death of Girl

'HEX' RITES PRACTICED IN CELL

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 23. — (INS.) — Charles T. Belles, self-styled "faith doctor," known as a pow-wow or hex doctor throughout Lehigh County, still glared at his jailers in the county jail today, where he is being held in connection with the mysterious death of Verna Octavia Delp, 21-year-old farm girl.

Belles refused to talk. He folded his arms, refusing to touch the doors or walls of the jail last night, as he was being placed in his cell. Pow-wow believers said by not touching the prison doors he prevented "his spirit from being trapped in the jail."

Miss Delp, whose body was found near the Catasaqua Gun Club a week ago, was known to have been a patient of the hex doctor. She died from a deadly poison.

Belles' arrest was forecast by District Attorney Ethan Allen Gearhart on Thursday, but it was not until last night that the arrest was made. He will be arraigned today before Alderman D. Bower. No formal charge has been preferred against him, but Gearhart said he would be accused of participation in the killing of Miss Delp.

GIRL 'FOOLING,' TAKES POISON

Hazel Pawrrish, 19, of 817 Federal street, was "only fooling" when she ate a poisonous tablet in her room early today in the presence of a "boy friend," she testified in Morals Court. Hazel was treated at Allegheny General Hospital. Magistrate A. D. Brandon discharged her.

The girl was taken to the hospital last night on the request of John De Grange, 30, of 3511 East street, an ex-policeman, who was arrested later on a suspicious person charge. He was held for investigation. De Grange told them, police said, that the girl had quarreled with him accusing him of being insufficiently attentive. When she dashed out of the room and returned and said she had taken poison, he called an ambulance, De Grange told police.

Antiques Bequest Suit Won by Ford

BRIDGETON, N. J., March 23.—Henry Ford has been absolved of a charge of undue influence. Judge Bartlett upheld the will of William Ernest Haskell, who left his antiques to the manufacturer. A contest was made by the testator's mother and, after her death, by her executor.

Wheeler in Panama After Managua Trip

FRANCE FIELD, Christobal, Canal Zone, March 23.—(AP.)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler returned yesterday in a Marine Corps airplane from Managua, Nicaragua. He went immediately to Panama City, from where he will sail for the United States in about a week.

28 Boy Scouts Drown, Report

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Mar. 23.—(AP.)—A cottage in which 28 Boy Scouts were camping, near Rockwood, Tenn., was torn from its foundation and sent swirling down a swollen stream today by flood waters.

Reports reaching here were that residents of the section heard the screams of the boys in the cottage, and it was feared that all were drowned.

REBELS ENTER MAZATLAN AS MANY FALL

By HARRY BERGMAN.
International News Service.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, March 23.—The battle for Mazatlan, Sinaloa, was still raging today. A revolutionary army under Gen. Francisco Manzo was within the gates of the city, hotly pressing upon federal defending troops under Gen. Jaime Carrillo, who were fighting desperately from fortifications atop a hill bordering the north shore of Mazatlan peninsula.

With heavy artillery fire thundering from two sides of the city and hand-to-hand street fighting occurring intermittently, casualties were believed numerous on both sides, though no definite estimate can be made before hostilities end.

PLANE SHOT DOWN

In a telegraphic communication to Gen. Francisco Borquez from field headquarters shortly after midnight the prediction was made that "Mazatlan will fall into our hands before sunrise. Our troops are already in control of the greater part of the city."

The rebel cavalry advance over a single narrow land entrance to the city was harrassed by a severe bombardment from the Mexican federal gunboat Progreso lying in the harbor. Rebel artillery returned the

Gov. Hartranft's Kin Leaps to Death

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Evan R. Hartranft, said to be descended from the same family of which former Gov. John Frederick Hartranft was a member, leaped to his death here yesterday afternoon from the Eighth Street Bridge. He was 73 and had been despondent because of ill health. He is survived by a widow and six children.

For a time the body lay in a morgue unidentified.

Ederle to Try Air Cure for Deafness

NEW YORK, March 23.—The worst part of Gertrude Ederle's deafness, as she explains it, "is that I can't hear the nice things my beau says to me unless he shouts, so we have absolutely no privacy." She is to avoid swimming and try airplane flights in an effort for a cure. The channel swimmer's deafness was revealed when she was in court for speeding in an automobile. Sentence was suspended.

Sarrail, Verdun Defender Dies

PARIS, March 23. — (AP.) — Gen. Maurice Emmanuel Sarrail, one-time "defender of Verdun" and former high commissioner of Syria, died today at the age of 72.

CAMBRIDGE BEATS OXFORD IN CENTENARY BOAT RACE

PUTNEY, England, March 23.—(INS.)—Cambridge University celebrated the centenary of the famous Oxford-Cambridge boat race today by decisively beating Oxford in this historic rowing contest on the River Thames. Cambridge won by seven boat lengths.

The time of the Cambridge crew was 19 minutes 25 seconds.

The Cambridge oarsmen finished fairly fresh. The Oxford oarsmen were exhausted.

A crowd of nearly 1,500,000 people, that lined both sides of the river, sent up a thunderous cheer that rolled up and down the length of the 4½-mile course between Putney and Mortlake when Cambridge, after getting away behind its opponent, began to forge ahead.

At the end of the third mile Cambridge was three boat lengths in the lead. This lead was gradually extended.

The dark blue oarsmen could not stand the terrific pace.

Cambridge's victory evened up the score with Oxford. In the past 100 years the race has been rowed 81 times. Cambridge and Oxford each has won 40 times. The contest in 1877 was a dead heat.

The race was rowed in near-perfect weather. The crews were handicapped all through the training season by the rigors of winter but they had nothing to complain of along that line today.

U. S. SINKS BRITISH BOAT

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—(AP.)—The coastguard cutters Dexter and Walcott plowed up the swollen Mississippi to New Orleans today bringing in irons the crew of the British schooner Imalone, including one dead member, the victim of a gun battle at sea off the Louisiana coast, after a 24-hour flight.

The Imalone was shelled by the Dexter yesterday when her unidentified master refused to submit to search on being overhauled by the coast guard boat and sent to the bottom with a suspected cargo of contraband.

ONCE TOO OFTEN

The elusive craft, which coast guardsmen say carried on successful liquor smuggling operations off the coast of New England, was sunk near "Sixty Deep" off Marsh Island.

Government officials here and Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard in Washington, said reports at hand indicated that the guns were fired within the jurisdiction of the United States.

The Imalone "ran up against the coast guard once too often," Admiral Billard said.

ULTIMATUM DEFIED

Radio reports from coast guard patrol boats concentrating on rum ships in the Atchafalaya section to Lieut. Com. A. H. Bixby, dry squadron commander at Pascagoula, Miss., stated that everything possible was done to avoid firing on the Imalone.

Orders were issued to the cutters' masters to arrest all craft within the limits suspected of engaging in smuggling operations. The guardships Dallas, Forward and Dexter

4 AUTOS SEIZED IN DRY RAIDS

Dealing a triple blow at alleged bootlegging in two hours early today, Federal prohibition agents confiscated four automobiles and a large quantity of contraband liquor and arrested 10 men.

At the Fren Gardens, formerly the Raybrook Inn, on the Corcoran road, near the Washington pike, back of Crafton, agents reported they saw men loading beer onto a truck. They seized two automobiles, loaded with beer and whisky and in the cellar found eight barrels and six half-barrels of beer, they said.

Charles Rock, alleged proprietor; Mike Doyak, Wilfred Mantle and Frank Sxczepinik were arrested.

Other agents reported seizing an auto carrying 18 cases of whisky in front of a house at 113 De Soto street, and finding 20 cases in the kitchen of the house. They arrested Alex Rosenberg in the auto and Robert Frishman and Dominic Ross in the house. All were released under $1,000 bond.

Harry J. McAfee, Barney C. Glazar and Joseph A. Kraft were arrested in connection with the seizure of an automobile bearing 25 gallons of moonshine in Lincoln avenue, Millvale, agents reported.

Eight pints of Log Cabin liquor were confiscated, prohibition agents reported, when they raided the Log Cabin Inn, Long Run road and White Oak boulevard, Versailles Township, last midnight. Raymond Frick, alleged proprietor, arrested by the raiders, was said to have carried a pint of liquor in his pocket.

Salvation Army workers in the mine zone of death and privation carrying a measure of condolence to these children of George Hunter, killed in the blast that wrecked Kinloch mine. The mother, Mrs. Lillian Hunter, faces life bitterly, with only 30 cents and little clothing for her children, Alice, 13; Bertha, 12; Pearl, 8; Orbra, 6; Bessie, 4, and Eugene, 2, shown in their little company house at the workings. Some are shoeless and stockingless.

NEW CHARTER UP FOR O. K.

The amendments which will transform the elaborate Metropolitan District charter proposed by the Metropolitan District commission to a comparatively simple document providing little more than the creation of the district are scheduled for approval today.

The political leaders who decided in conferences this week on the stripping of the original charter bill of nearly every major provision will meet today to act upon the final draft of the amendments, completed by attorneys for the city, county and commission. The amendments will be presented to the Judiciary General Committee of the state Senate and are expected to be adopted after the hearing on the bill, fixed for next Tuesday.

CIVIC CLUB OBJECTS

What opposition may develop at the hearing on the proposed drastic revision of the charter has not been indicated. The Civic Club of Allegheny County, which, yesterday at its meeting, adopted a resolution indorsing the charter proposed by the commission and objecting to its emasculation, is the first organized voice of protest heard. No statement was forthcoming from the

Miner Escapes Blast Through Trade of Jobs

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 23.—Lawrence Cole, of Brownsville, who was employed on the night shift at the Kinloch mine, probably owes his life to the fact that he changed jobs with his brother-in-law, Harry Hertzog, one of the victims of Thursday's blast.

Cole traded jobs with Hertzog about a month ago, so he would be on the same shift as his brother, Lester Cole. The brothers had been out of the workings two hours when the blast occurred.

COLE BLEASE ACCUSED

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Testimony that Senator Blease (Dem.), South Carolina, had contributed $500 to the organization headed by Joseph W. Tolbert, Republican national committeeman for the state, and that while governor, Blease pardoned two of Tolbert's cousins, was laid before the Senate Patronage Committee today by W. F. Brown, Charleston (S. C.), contractor.

Brown told the committee that in June, 1921, Tolbert advised him that he "wanted Blease for federal district attorney, that Blease had contributed liberally" to his campaign funds and "had given $500."

"Tolbert further said," Brown declared, "that Blease, while governor, had pardoned two of his cousins, one of whom, a man named Henderson, was postmaster at North Charleston."

He did not say what the convictions against the men were.

PRIVATION ADDS TO HORRORS

The gaunt figure of privation is keeping death company at Kinloch.

Slack work and low wages already had stamped the marks of destitution and want upon many of the homes in that blast-stricken town, and now grief and need stalk there, side by side.

Family after family, saddened by the loss of some father or brother, in many cases has lost its only wage-earner.

WELFARE WORKERS BUSY

Pitiful tales of want have come to light during the last two days through the reports of welfare workers who have gone into these drab little homes, seeking to carry a word of cheer and comfort.

One of these workers is Capt. Nell Bryant, wife of Adjt. Victor C. Bryant, New Kensington Salvation Army leader. Her cheery smile, so well known in Pittsburgh when she was stationed here a few years ago, has done much to raise the broken spirits of women and children in

Mabel Normand Makes Slight Gain

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 23.—(INS.)—Except for a slight abatement of her high fever of the past few days, there has been no marked change in the condition of Mabel Normand, screen actress, who is seriously ill at her home here, a nurse in attendance said today. Miss Normand is in an advanced stage of tuberculosis, according to her physician, Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, who holds little hope for her recovery.

POETICAL LOVE LETTERS READ AT INMAN TRIAL

RENO, Nev., March 23.—(INS.)—Behind closed doors the Inman divorce battle was resumed today in Judge George A. Bartlett's Court.

Walker P. Inman, multimillionaire heir Duke tobacco fortune, is seeking a divorce from Mrs. Helene Garnet Patton Inman, daughter of a Kokomo, Ind., minister, who in a cross complaint, is seeking the decree and a quarter of a million dollars as a property settlement.

Further legal pyrotechnics was expected today, over the manner of identification of poetic love letters alleged to have been written to Mrs. Inman by John Steele, actor. Late yesterday, Mrs. Sarah McKenna, of Brooklyn, identified the letters as having been read to her by Mrs. Inman, who told her they were from Steele.

"Darling this afternoon while singing there was a bad audience, so while out before the lights, thought of my pretty baby's face and knocked 'em cold," read a letter introduced as evidence. It continued:

"I looked straight into the spotlight and it glistened with your golden hair. You gazed as one divine with a halo about your head.

"You must have known I thought of you and worried all day and evening through. When I heard your tender voice say 'Hello, is that you, dear?' you may well believe it brought me cheer."

Another poetical note read:

"I beneath your throne am dust and can't mean more than crumbs of crust to starving hawks that sweep the walks. I cannot die until goodby is sung from soul to soul."

Mrs. Inman probably will occupy the unique position of being a witness for both her husband and herself before the case is finished. Counsel for Inman called her late yesterday to identify a letter carefully pieced together from fragments thrown in a waste basket.

RESCUERS LOCATE LAST OF MISSING

These figures were definitely established today as the death toll of the Kinloch mine disaster:

Dead—46.
Saved—266.
Injured—16.

Rescuers, tired from successfully battling four fires which caused fear of another explosion early today, ceased work with the announcement by officials of the Valley Camp Coal Company that all the men were believed accounted for.

TWO FOUND AT HOME

Rescuers had been searching for Miners John Mack and Steve Ronids, but they were reported safe in their homes and not even in the mine when the explosion shook the Allegheny valley Thursday morning.

One body remained in the mine today, trapped in wreckage and water at the foot of the main slope. It was believed to be that of Arnold Breeding.

The last body to be removed from the mine was that of George De-Louvieres, pumper, taken to the surface early today.

Of the 45 bodies removed from the mine, the only one heretofore unidentified was recognized today as that of Peter Karatovich.

BATTLE FOUR FIRES

Rescuers worked feverishly to control the four fires which flared up in different rooms of the mine this morning. Three were quickly extinguished, and the fourth, a smoldering blaze, was reported well under control.

With the casualty list awaiting the official stamp, Mine Superintendent Oliver F. Taylor announced that workmen would begin to pump

FIREMEN AVERT POWDER BLAST

Hard fighting by firemen prevented a serious fire in the arsenal group of warehouses, Fortieth and Butler streets, today, after a gas explosion had damaged the quarters of the Star Service Hanger Company to the extent of $2,000.

Eight employes were routed by the blast and fire.

Although the flames were confined to the quarters of the Hanger company, for a time they threatened to spread to the adjoining rooms occupied by the Halpern Fireworks Company. Knowing explosive material was stored in the Halpern warehouse, the firemen fought to keep the flames from spreading.

Gas accumulating in a small furnace is belived to have caused the explosion. Two motors were wrecked and the stock of the company was damaged.

HOOVER ORDERS NEW IMMIGRATION ACT IN FORCE JULY 1

BOY SCOUTS FOCH HONOR GUARD

PARIS, March 23.—(AP.)—The youth of France, as well as veteran soldiers and statesmen, today paid tribute to the memory of Marshal Foch, and, at the marshal's own request, four Boy Scouts between the ages of 12 and 14 will stand guard over the body during the imposing funeral ceremony now being prepared.

As the people of France, of all ages and conditions of life, continued to file past the bier, the government completed its preparations for the great state funeral on Tuesday.

MARSHAL'S WISH

The marshal, it was said, felt that the young generation should have the honor of watching over the old. He frequently mentioned this wish to Maj. L'Hopital, his aide, who is a moving spirit in the Boy Scout movement in France.

Marking a precedent in state funerals, at least so far as European custom has been, Gaston Doumergue, as president of the French Republic, will attend the funeral service in Notre Dame on Tuesday, and will ride in the cortege behind the body.

It is understood that those in charge of the etiquette of state wanted the usual forms observed, but President Doumergue himself insisted that he be permitted to pay this last signal honor to the memory of the departed generalissimo.

IMPOSING PLANS

The transfer of the body from the Foch residence to the Arc de Triomphe tomorrow will be a little more imposing than was first planned. The body will leave the Rue Grenell at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, accompanied by Minister of War Painleve and other members of the government. A squadron of cavalry will escort it.

Then Boy Scouts, with frequent reliefs, will stand guard all Sunday, Sunday night and Monday until the body is taken to the Cathedral of Notre Dame Monday evening.

were ordered to converge on the section as soon as Warrant Officer Frank Paul, commander of the Walcott, first radioed that the Imalone was sighted Thursday.

These reports said the master of the rum schooner defied an ultimatum of the commander of the Dexter to heave to and submit to search. Thereupon the Dexter issued final warning of "I'll have to sink you then. Get your men into the boats before we fire."

RAIDERS OPEN FIRE

The schooner still resisted and the raiding government boat fired.

The suspected rum crew quickly took to boats and all were picked up by the Dexter and Walcott, the latter of which had sped to the scene.

The body of a Negro seaman who drowned in the fligh to the boats was recovered and placed upon the Walcott.

A gunner on the Walcott suffered a broken arm in the recoil of his gun when the Walcott encountered the Imalone the day before and fired a shot int the rigging of the craft when resistance was offered.

FLED TOWARD MEXICO

The hunted ship escaped beyond shallow shoal water and headed outward in the course toward Puerto, Mexico.

Pending arrival of the coast guard cutters in New Orleans today, government officers declined to forecast what action might be taken against members of the crew in the alleged attempt at smuggling and the firing on a British ship.

Bishop Coadjutor To Be Sought Again

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(AP.)—A fifth attempt to find a bishop coadjutor willing to accept the position will be made by the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania on May 6. A formal call for a special convention on that date was made last night by Bishop Thomas S. Garland, head of the diocese. The special convention will be held the day before the one hundred and forty-fifth annual diocesan convention, in Holy Trinity Church here. The four men previously chosen declined to accept.

Young Griffo Leaves $3,800 Cash in Bank

NEW YORK, March 23.—The show that Young Griffo gave often in a barroom, standing on a handkerchief and ducking blows of anybody who tried to hit him, was profitable. Supposed to have died penniless, he left $3,800 in bank. By court order $500 has been turned over to the estate of Tex Rickard, who paid for the boxer's funeral.

Man Killed in Fall Down 66-Foot Stack

READING, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Falling 66 feet inside a chimney he was assisting in dismantling at the Robesonia Iron Works, Alvin E. Kelly, 25, of this city, was killed late yesterday. Kelly had been working atop the stack cutting its steel sheeting with an acetylene torch. He leaves a widow and three children.

commission or its chairman, Joseph T. Miller.

Attorney C. K. Robinson, counsel to the commission, joined with city and county solicitors in preparing the amendments, under which the commission is continued for two years to study a municipal court plan. The amendments eliminate the comprehensive provision of the commission for creation of a municipal court, with 20 judges at $5,000 each annually, which met with strenuous opposition from aldermen and justices of the peace.

BOARD'S SALARIES

The delegation of legislative, as well as executive authority, under the amendments, to the board of seven county commissioners to be organized in January, 1932, has aroused discussion of the possibility that this board may adopt measures providing for functions eliminated from the commission's charter, if determined to be acceptable after further study. The amendments as drafted provide that members of the new board will be paid $12,000 each annually, instead of $9,000, fixed in the original charter, with no change in the $15,000 annual salary of the president of the board, fixed in the charter.

The amendments as drafted provide for the transfer of the transit department from the city as originally planned and, while eliminating the proposed department of law, permit appointment of additional special assistant solicitors.

D. P. W. RETAINED

The proposed department of finance with the broad powers designed by the commission is eliminated by the amendments and its functions are given to the county controller under the present laws. The department of health planned by the commission is retained under the amendments, without transfer of the city department. The commission plan to make the treasurer appointive instead of elective is dropped, and the delinquent tax collector, instead of having his office immediately abolished, will continue to the end of the present term.

The Department of Public Works will be retained with slight change under the amendments, and the safety or police department is eliminated, as is the proposed Department of Welfare. The amendments drop the proposed departments of Planning, Personnel, Research and Information and provide for no change in the city Department of Assessors.

GRAF TO LEAVE MONDAY ON FIRST AERIAL 'JOY RIDE'

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, March 23.—(INS.)—Three women will be included among the 25 passengers on the great dirigible Graf Zeppelin when it starts at approximately 2 o'clock Monday morning on its longest passenger flight to the Orient.

This trip is expected to exceed in distance the trans-Atlantic flight of the Graf to the United States last year. It may break all flight records.

There will be 70 persons aboard in all. The three women passengers are Lady Drummond Hay, who was a passenger on the trans-Atlantic journey; Frau Tony Sender, a Socialist deputy of the Reichstag, and Countess Hella von Brandenstein Zeppelin.

Others aboard the Graf will be Minister of Justice Koch, Paul Poebe, president of the Reichstg, and former Minister of Transportation von Guerard.

Since the French restricted the trans-France route to the high mountains and the English forbade flying over Egyptian soil, Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the Zeppelin works, may decide to fly over Austria, directly to Palestine, although special stamps show the Zeppelin over the pyramids.

This trip has been designated as the first aerial "joy ride" in history. The cruise is expected to last about four days.

Uniforms Ordered For Border Patrol

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Uniforms for border patrolmen of the customs service in Los Angeles, Arizona, El Paso, Porto Rico, San Antonio and Florida, similar in design to those used by the Canadian border patrol, were ordered yesterday by the Treasury. In these districts, however, olive drab cloth and russet leather belts will be substituted for the gray whipcord and black leather of the Canadian patrol.

Laemmle's Brother Dies in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 23.—(INS.)—Joseph Laemmle, eldest brother of Carl Laemmle, pioneer motion picture producer, is dead here today. He died of heart disease after an illness of four years.

Besides his widow and a grown son and daughter, he is survived by three brothers, Carl Laemmle, Siegfried Laemmle, of Munich, Germany, who is visiting here, and Louis Laemmle, of Chicago.

out the water and remove the wreckage to reach the body believed Breeding's. Taylor estimated this as an all-day job.

STATE INQUIRY READY

The state will begin its investigation of the blast Monday, it was learned officially this morning from W. J. McGregor, state mine inspector, and one of the commission of three named last night by State Mine Secretary Walter R. Glasgow to inquire into the explosion. McGregor's associates in the investigation include John F. Bell, state mine inspector from the second district, at Dravosburg, and Alex. McCanch, No. 1 District, at Monongahela City. The United States Bureau of Mines also will make an investigation in addition to the Westmoreland County coroner's probe. All three are expected to get under way by Monday.

O. S. Taylor, superintendent of Kinloch, declared this morning he had placed the company's entire personnel at the disposal of state, county and federal authorities in their inquiries. He explained the cause of the blast was beyond human control, saying it was a mechanical defect rather than carelessness or disregard of mine safety regulations.

"65 PER CENT SAFETY"

"We took great pride in our safety measures," he declared, pausing a moment to praise the work of William S. Eash, director of safety at the mine, who lost his life in the explosion.

"Only last month we attained 65 per cent in safety," he continued, "and our insurance rate was reduced 95 cents."

The risk is based upon the mine's record for the past five years, he explained, and is rated according to the amount of rock dusting in the workings, road clearances and general hazards in the underground passages.

Six rescue teams of five men each worked six-hour shifts all night. They began a systematic search of butt facings along both sides of the main heading beginning at the foot of the slope, where the heavy steel conveyor belt and its load tumbled into a shapeless heap Thursday morning, precipitating the explosion.

Mine officials and state mine inspectors directed the search by telephone from the surface.

CROWDS THRONG ROAD

Friends and relatives of miners, mingled with the morbidly curious, continued to throng the high wire fence along Puckety Creek road, leading into Parnassus, and details of state highway patrolmen and state police had their hands full keeping traffic on the move.

Once during the night onlookers as well as rescuers thrilled to a report that three men had walked out of the back end of the mine from the Seventh street entry, in Arnold.

Rescue squads, doctors and nurses were rushed to the scene, only to find a detail of three watchers, who had just relieved three other rescue workers a short time before, seated comfortably around the pit mouth.

Assemblyman A. W. Musmanno was continuing his private investigation of the disaster. He made charges last night that pumps had been removed from the mine beyond the point where seepage water could be handled.

BRIBE TO OUST GOVERNOR CHARGED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 23.—(AP.)—Impeached by the House of Representatives on one of 11 charges brought by the general investigating committee, Charles W. Mason, chief justice of the State Supreme Court, still was the target of committee activities today as votes were sought on additional charges.

Impeachment charges against Justices J. W. Clark and Fletcher Riley, also reported by the committee, had not been brought to the attention of the House, as members sought to dispose of one case at a time.

The Senate, which joined the House last night in inquisitorial activities, heard Senator John L. Rice testify that Ed M. Semans, of Oklahoma City, had sought to influence his vote in the court of impeachment which ousted Henry S. Johnston as governor. Senator Rice declared that Semans told him that if he would join the opposition to Johnston, a $150,000,000 road bond issue would be issued if W. J. Holloway succeeded to the governor's chair and that "a $15,000,000 melon would be cut."

Semans denied the charge.

MILL WORKMAN DIES IN BLAST

When a tank of gas used for welding in the Homestead works of the Carnegie Steel Company exploded today, Israel Salsgiver, 34, of 551 Ninth avenue, Munhall, was killed.

Salsgiver's body was blown to fragments. The portion of the plant where he was working was damaged, and work there was suspended.

The concussion of the blast rattled windows in Homestead, Braddock, Rankin and Wilkinsburg. Officials reported that the gas was not acetylene, but a special welding fuel kept in tanks under pressure.

TAMMANY ASKS SMITH TO HELP END DEADLOCK

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Having failed to pick a man "from the ranks," Tammany today was looking to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and other party leaders to help choose a new chieftain.

After accepting the resignation of George W. Olvany, yesterday, the executive committee of Tammany found itself deadlocked on the choice of a successor. A committee was appointed to consult Mr. Smith, Mayor James J. Walker, Surrogate James A. Foley and United States Senator Robert F. Wagner.

The decision to invite the titular head of the Democratic party into the councils of the wigwam was an about-face on the part of the district leaders. During a week of intensive campaigning among themselves they had ignored Mr. Smith in their determination that no "outsider" should have a voice in the picking of a new leader.

Although the week's campaign under the slogan "a man from the ranks," had brought forward John F. Curry and Martin G. McCue, district leaders, as outstanding candidates, no vote was taken at the executive committee meeting.

fire in an attempt to destroy the gunboat.

While federals still held Loma Atravezada they sent an airplane up to check Cruz' cavalry advance. The plane was brought down by rebel fire just after taking the air, crashing into massed federal soldiers, and causing a panic in the ranks which resulted in Carrillo's retreat to the north hill fortification, according to insurgent communication.

NACO BATTLE NEAR

While Mazatlan today occupied the revolutionary spotlight, Naco, Sonora, promised to become a center of action. Rebel headquarters said early today Gen. Fausto Topete's troops are now within 12 miles of the Naco federal garrison.

The Torreon sector also promised a possibility of action today with a large rebel force from Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar's army reported massing at Bermejillo, 30 miles north of Torreon, Calles' base, apparently for the purpose of beginning the new rebel southward drive.

A trough of low pressure extends from the lakes southwestward to Kansas and thence westward to the plateau region, with centers at Grand Rapids, Mich., 29.54, at Wichita, Kan., 29.44, and at Grand Junction, Col., 29.30. High pressure areas overlie the North and South Atlantic coast and Saskatchewan, Canada.

Rain has fallen generally east of the Mississippi, over the northern plains and over most of the western states. Heavy rains fell at Chattanooga, 2.30; Knoxville, 2.28; Nashville, 2.32, and Vicksburg, 2.66 inches.

It is warmer east of the Mississippi, while colder weather prevails over the northern plains, the Rocky Mountains and the plateau region.

River Conditions.

The rivers are rising slowly throughout the district, due to light rains. Stage at Franklin is 9.1 feet; Lock No. 7, 13.6; Pittsburgh, 15.5; Dam No. 2, 7.0; Dam No. 6, 14.2; Dam No. 9, 13.9, and Dam No. 12, 12.1. The rivers will continue to rise slowly. At Pittsburgh the stage will be between 16.5 and 71.0 feet by Sunday morning, and at Dam No. 2, about 8.0 feet.

OPPOSITION TO CHANGE UNABATED

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Bowing to his belief that the chief executive should be the first to obey the law even though he doesn't like it, President Hoover has proclaimed the new national origins quotas of the restrictive immigration act effective July 1.

At the same time, it has been made clear that he is hopeful that Congress will act at the special session beginning next month to defer for another year operation of the national origins provision, which he opposes, so that the whole question may be reviewed at the regular session in December.

ONLY COURSE FOR HOOVER

"The Attorney General has advised me that in failure of Congress to suspend action, it is now mandatory upon me under the immigration act to issue the proclamation establishing 'national origins' as the basis of immigration quotas," the President said in reply to questions just before the proclamation was issued.

"The proclamation must be issued prior to April 1 and will be issued at once. It will go into effect on July 1 unless action is taken by Congress in the meantime. While I am strongly in favor of restricted and selected immigration, I have opposed the national origins basis.

"I, therefore, naturally dislike the duty of issuing the proclamation and installing the new basis, but the President of the United States must be the first to obey the law."

FAVORS PRESENT QUOTA

Immediately after the proclamation was issued, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican House leader, said that if a measure deferring operation of the national origins provision should be adopted by the Senate it would be considered in the House before July 1. Senate leaders were silent regarding the proposal.

The President favors a continuance of the present quotas, which are based on the 1890 census.

The proclamation said that the new quotas fixed by it were available only for persons eligible to citizenship in the United States and admissible under the immigration law. The President added that the quotas had no political significance and did not involve the recognition of new governments or boundaries, or of transfers of territory, "except as the United States government has already made such recognition in a formal and official manner."

10,000 REDUCTION

The new basis would reduce by more than 10,000 annually the number of persons admissible. Under it 153,714 would be admitted yearly instead of 164,647 under the 1890 scale.

The fight upon the proposal has centered around the changes that would be made in the quotas of Germany, Norway, and Sweden, England and Northern Ireland and several of the Southern European countries.

Under the new quotas Austria would be allowed 1,413 immigrants as against 785 under the present law.

Belgium would get 1,304 as against 512.

their hour of grief. Her practical gifts of food and clothing have done much to relieve their suffering bodies.

NEED FOOD, CLOTHING

"Food and clothing are badly needed," she said today. "Some of these people are in dire circumstances. I wish we had more clothes, particularly children's shoes. We have plenty of food."

In one home, Capt. Bryant found a bereaved mother and six children, the eldest 13, with but 30 cents to their name. George Hunter, the husband, lies in the morgue at New Kensington, a victim of Thursday's blast.

"George was a good man," his wife said. "He didn't make much—at the most around $40 for two weeks. But he always spent his money on his family."

"How about clothes—are you and your children well supplied?" she was asked.

"Clothes! Look at us—we have no more," came her answer.

Mother and children were in tatters, and the three youngest had neither shoes nor stockings.

MONEY ALL WENT TO STORE

Pressed further about clothes, she continued bitterly:

"How could we buy clothes? It took all our money to buy food. George never drew any money—it all went to the company store."

This is the story of many others, according to Capt. Bryant, who is busy night and day trying to find means for providing for these needy people.

C. L. Greenlee, field representative of the American Red Cross, arrived at Kinloch from national headquarters at Washington, and was busy today conferring with local officials on relief for miners' stricken families.

Sun-Telegraph Encourages Savings Bank Depositors

To stimulate thrift, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will deposit $10 to the credit of each of the bank books in the following list. If you hold one of these bank books, bring it to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph office, Gazette Square, and present it to Robert N. Laughlin, cashier.

Name of bank.	Book No.
Second National Bank of Allegheny	12,022
Dollar Savings & Trust Company	67,505
Perry State Bank	1,875
Fidelity Title & Trust Company	5,093
Franklin Savings & Trust Company	B-199
Forbes National Bank	1,468
Bloomfield Trust Company	10,009
Ohio Valley Bank	4,309
Bank of Secured Savings	25,113
Manchester Savings Bank	10,588

The books designated may be presented during business hours any time within a week, but not later than noon Saturday, March 30.

Any bank in Greater Pittsburgh having savings or thrift accounts may have its passbook numbers included in these thrift gift lists by a request from a bank official to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Thrift Department.

Watch tomorrow's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for more information of interest to savings bank depositors.

ANGELO VALSI, a coal miner, of 1075 McLaughlin Run road, Bridgeville, will bear witness to the benefit of thrift. He started a savings account in the Bridgeville Trust Company on November 15, 1910, and made frequent deposits until April 1, 1927, when the great coal strike started. Mr. Valsi's savings stood him in good stead during the long period of idleness.

After being out 18 months he went back to work. But shortly afterward he was in an accident that has kept him at home since, a cripple, dependent on a workman's compensation allowance and what is left of his savings.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has deposited $10 to Valsi's credit in the Bridgeville Trust Company as a reward for thrift. His bank book, No. 1,852, was chosen as one of the numerous accounts that this newspaper is increasing with thrift gifts ranging from $5 to $50 each.

MARTHA N. WICK

If you have a bank book, you may be among those to be rewarded.

Miss Martha N. Wick, of 5916 Rippey street, has been awarded $10 as the holder of Marine book No. 2,915 in the Third National Bank. Acknowledging the gift, Miss Wick remarked that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph plan was proving very effective in inducing people to deposit money in savings banks.

Sam Spear, of 303 Paul street, Mt. Washington, who has received $10 as holder of passbook No. 3,170 in the Monongahela National Bank, gives this advice: Make thrift a habit. Deposit part of your pay as regularly as you get it. And don't break the continuity of your deposits, if you can possibly help it; for if you let one payday pass without putting something in the bank you will the more easily succumb to the temptation to do the same thing the next payday.

Among other recipients of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph thrift awards are Mrs. Catherine Hennessy, 707 Fordham avenue, Brookline, holder of passbook No. 1,389 in the Fourteenth Street Bank, who has received $10; Miss Mary Wening, of 103 Stewart avenue, Carrick, No. 652 in the Terminal Trust Company, $10, and Mrs. Mary McCann, 209 Clairmont avenue, West View, No. 389,233 in the Dollar Savings Bank, $5.

TRIES SUICIDE TWICE, FAILS

After draining a two-ounce bottle of poison, police say, a middle-aged, unidentified man tried to leap from the Liberty Bridge into the Monongahela River this morning.

A passing truck driver ran to the man's side and seized him as he was mounting the railing. The driver took the man to Mercy Hospital and departed without giving hospital authorities his name.

In a watch carried by the would-be suicide, police said, were the initials "W. E. S." Hospital attendants said his condition was not serious.

LONDON PAPER CHARGES WORLD OIL MONOPOLY

LONDON, March 23.—(AP.)—The Daily Mail said today that the world's oil "kings" at a forthcoming meeting in New York expect to make arrangements to enable them to control the output and price of gasoline throughout the world.

The Mail said: "The object of the conference is to establish in fact, if not in name, a world oil trust. This scheme has been made possible by the recently concluded agreement with the Reds at Moscow, which, at the expense of the consumer, has eliminated for the benefit of the petrol combine competition of cheaply marketed oil from the confiscated oil fields of Russia."

The Mail said the affair really began with a mysterious meeting at Achnacarry Castle in Scotland last year of the three oil men, Sir Henri Deterding, Walter Teagle and Sir John Cadman.

"It was decided," the paper said, "that Sir Henri Deterding and Sir John Cadman should consolidate the European oil interests while Mr. Teagle should return to America and arrange for the formation of an oil export association. The two organizations would agree upon a common plan of action as far as the world oil resources and supplies were concerned."

The Mail said the success of this plan depended upon an agreement with Moscow, which was achieved at the end of February.

BIG POOL TO AID STOCK TRADING IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—A forty million dollar money pool was being formed today to be available for call loans secured by stocks listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

The pool was decided upon last night after local banks had called upon their broker customers to reduce their loans. It followed a disastrous day on the Chicago exchange during which stocks were sold regardless of price in response to the calling of loans by the banks.

R Arthur Wood, president of the exchange, announced that $10,000,000 of the pool would be available today and the other $30,000,000 Monday.

CONFER WITH BANKERS

The exchange, he said, would operate what corresponds to a money post of the New York exchange, and would charge borrowers the prevailing New York call money rate.

Governors of the Chicago exchange conferred with representatives of Loop banks last night. The conference followed the regular monthly meeting of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank board, at which no action was taken toward changing that institution's 5 per cent rediscount rate.

At Washington there was a meeting of the Federal Reserve Board with all members and ex-officio members present, but no announcement was made as to the purpose, or what action, if any, was decided upon.

BLAME RESERVE BOARD

At last night's conference between bankers and stock exchange officers, the bankers explained that they had no desire to injure the local securities market. Their action in demanding that their broker-customers reduce their loans was forced, they explained, by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, which in turn acted upon insistence from the Federal Reserve Board.

Railroading Easier Pastor Quits to Take Engine

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 23.—(AP.)—Ask the Rev. J. H. Stanberry and he'll say it's easier work running a locomotive than ministering to the spiritual needs of people.

Having done both, he found the minister's life too strenuous and yesterday announced his resignation as pastor of the North Asheville Baptist Church. He intends to return to his former occupation as a Southern Railway engineer.

"I'm resigning my pastorate because of ill health that has followed overwork," he said, "but I will return to the ministry as soon as my health will permit me to take up this work again."

MISSION RAZED IN KIANGSI

CANTON, China, March 23.—(AP.)—A message to the French consul here from the Lazarist Bishop Dumond at Kanchowki, dated March 20, says that all missions in Southern Kiagsi have been burned and pillaged and the missionaries have fled for their lives to the hills.

Attempts of the American and French consuls to communicate with Bishops O'Shea and Dumond have been fruitless, the telegraph lines being severed.

Chinese officials here were not informed today of the situation and continued their promises to dispatch troops to the province. They however, have not acted.

LONDON, March 23.—(AP.)—Dispatches to the Daily Express today said that fighting had begun on the Hunan-Kiangsi border in China between the Kwangsi opponents of the Nanking government and the old fourth army which is now supporting President Chiang Kai-Shek.

Detroit Ship Opens Lakes Season Today

DETROIT, Mich., March 23.—(INS.)—The first Great Lakes steamer to clear from Detroit this season is scheduled to leave its dock here today. The boat is the Coralia, a 3,500-ton freighter. Its cargo will be 400 automobiles consigned to Cleveland and other Ohio dealers. On Monday the return trip to Detroit will begin and regular trips are planned thereafter.

Judges and other county officials will be hosts at a reception at 10:30 today in room 315, Court House, to Congressman P. J. Sullivan, who has resigned as a member of the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes. The committee of arrangements is headed by Judge James B. Drew and Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

DouglasM'Lean Sued By Scenario Writer

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(AP.)—Douglas McLean, actor and producer, and the Christie Film Company yesterday were sued in Superior Court for $100,000 and an accounting by Roland Brown, scenario writer. Brown charged wrongful conversion and filming of a scenario written by him and submitted to the company, but for which he claimed he received no pay.

THOUSANDS JOIN IN DRIVE TO LOWER TAX ON WAGES

Novel ideas have been injected into Pittsburgh's campaign for a reduction of the Federal tax on earned incomes. As a result, the signers of petitions are constantly increasing.

Average motorists may disagree on the state gasoline tax, but they are almost unanimous on the question of a revision downward of the tax on the earnings of professional people, salaried men and women and all wage workers.

The progress of the campaign launched by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph with other Hearst newspapers for an appeal to Congress for action cutting the tax on workers of brain and brawn has gathered fresh momentum through the efforts of volunteers in circulating the petitions. Young women workers have obtained many signatures to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph petitions and are carrying this work far and wide. The motorist has not escaped, and in nearly every instance he has been willing to help the cause.

ACTRESS AIDS CAMPAIGN

Edna Wallace Hopper, actress, is an energetic worker in behalf of reducing the tax on earned incomes. At the Davis Theater between performances yesterday, she signed a petition and discoursed on the injustice of the present system of collecting income tax. She said:

"Members of all professions and all persons who work for a living feel the injustice of this tax and the inconsistency in levying it. I am more familiar, of course, with the vicissitudes of theater folk. Comparatively, stage people receive high salaries, but on the other hand we have overwhelming expenses. According to the present system of computing taxes on earned incomes these expenditures are not deductible, and an actor may end the year in debt and still have to pay a tax on his income. If he were engaged in a business pursuit he could charge off expenses and losses and pay on the true accruing income."

STORES, HOTELS HELP

Manager H. Davis, of the United Cigar Stores, placed petitions in all the branch stores of the local chain yesterday and reported that patrons were signing them in large numbers. In the Dow Drug Company stores there have been many signers and in all the hotels a rush of signers. These come from readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in distant places as well as in Pittsburgh and its environs. A feature of the returns was the large number from neighborhood bridge clubs.

CHICAGO GANGS KILL ANOTHER

CHICAGO, March 23.—(INS.)—One man dead and another perhaps fatally wounded was the toll today of Chicago's latest gang outbreak.

Raymond Cassidy, gambler and beer runner, was the man killed. He was riddled by machine gun bullets last night as he stood talking with friends in front of Danny Stanton's saloon on South Halstead street.

The job was bungled, however, and an innocent man may die as the result. He is James Hawkins, 22, who was passing the scene on a crowded street car when the shooting began.

Cassidy was surrounded by five men who leaped from an automobile. After clubbing the victim the leader of the gang said, "let him have it!" and one of the assassin squad trained a machine gun on Cassidy.

RADIO AS PLANE GUIDE MAY BE USED HERE

Application of radio to the guidance of airplanes in bad weather is being considered by officials at Bettis Field as another step to conquer the rapidly diminishing hazards of flying.

The plan is already in use by the National Air Transport, Inc. This company has completed the first practical hookup by which the pilot of a plane is guided safely along the flying lane, even when he can see scarcely beyond the length of his ship. A human voice from thousands of feet below and miles away tells him through his earphones just what the weather conditions are ahead, and what he must do to bring the mail in without a mishap.

PLANES EQUIPPED

Planes on the New York-Cleveland division of the Chicago route are already equipped with directional and ground-to-plane receiving sets, and all other ships of the company's fleet are having the new equipment installed.

Harry Neil, an official of Bettis Field, said today that under the plan considered for use by his company, a pilot flying at night, in rain, snow or fog, would be informed by radio whether he was on his true course. For example, the pilot, hearing a dot and a dash, would know that he was on the left of his course. He would swing over, and hearing a dash and a dot, would know that he was on the right of his course. He would edge back to the left a little and in the blending of the dots and dashes into one continuous dash would learn that he was following the correct path in the air.

EMERGENCY WARNINGS

Hourly, the pilot would turn a dial on his receiving set to a higher wave length, and hear a speaking voice, giving him detailed weather reports. If at any time between the hours the weather should take a sudden and severe change, the dot-dash signal will stop. That means that the pilot should tune into the higher wave length, just as he does at the end of the hour, and get his special information by voice.

Miss Helen Gigante, 22, of 400 Larimer avenue, suffered bruises when two cars collided at Meadow street and Larimer avenue. The drivers, Joseph Ficetto, 24, of 6491 Chaucer street, and Frank Greb, 26, of 6319 St. Marie street, were arrested. STORMS KILL 10 IN FLOODED SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., March 23.—(AP.)—Already sorely burdened with the aftermath of last week's floods, the South today saw a mounting toll of damage left in the wake of yesterday's series of tornadoes, hailstorms, high winds and heavy rains which descended on scattered communities extending from Louisiana to North Carolina.

Ten persons lost their lives in tornadoes and storms in three states. Scores of others were injured, and property damage has not been estimated.

Trapped in a church used as a school at Merrellton, Ala., five Negro children were killed and eight others injured; a boy was killed at Small Creek, N. C., and a farmer was killed by lightning at Alpharetta, Ga.

At Alexandria, La., alone property damage was estimated at $100,000.

RAIN AND WIND

Much damage was done within a 10-mile radius of Charlotte, N. C., and Pell City, Ala., was drenched by a cloudburst.

Wilson, N. C., Chattsworth and Oostanaula, Ga., and Maxwellborn, Ala., also suffered damage in windstorms, while at Jackson, Miss., Pearl River and Town Creek were turned into raging torrents by a rainstorm.

The telephone operator at Gloster, Miss., informed the Associated Press that three Negroes were killed in a storm at Harriston, Miss., early today and five houses blown down.

The storm also was reported to have struck Fayette.

Meanwhile there was no letup in the relief and rehabilitation programs under way for the 23,000 homeless flood victims in Alabama, Georgia and Florida. A government boat yesterday carried to safety a large number of refugees south of Selma, Ala.

Clear weather was in sight today following an added 2.58 inches which yesterday fell in the upper Chattanooga watershed in Alabama and Georgia.

MISSISSIPPI FLOODED

The Mississippi River was falling at Cairo and high water conditions were rapidly being relieved by a falling stage at Hickman, Ky. General rains throughout the midsouth today found tributaries spread over wide areas of lowlands.

The river at Memphis continued its steady rise, already more than five feet above flood stage. The crest prediction, 40.8 feet of water by Monday or Tuesday, remained unchanged. The present amount of water in sight was several feet below what government engineers considered the point of serious danger.

HOOVER ECONOMY ENDS CAREER OF MAYFLOWER

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—The presidential yacht Mayflower has carried her last party of distinguished guests down the Potomac.

President Hoover has ordered the historic vessel decommissioned so that her officers and crew may be available for service on new warships.

The action also is looked upon as an economy measure, since maintenance of the yacht in commission has been costing the government $300,000 a year.

In laying aside the Mayflower, Hoover has indicated the discontinuance of a form of presidential recreation which has been in favor for more than 15 years. The yacht came into service as the outing craft of presidents during the administration of President Wilson, and before that time had been used on several occasions by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft.

President Hoover feels that in view of the needs of the Navy for expansion and to further governmental economy, the maintenance of the ship is no longer warranted. New ships that are coming into the Navy create a constant demand for more men and decommissioning of the yacht will leave nine officers, 21 petty officers, 130 enlisted men and 21 Marines free for new assignments.

Word and Picture Chronicles of Film World and Amusements

KNOW THEM? :-: TWO IN ONE :-: STAGE STAR TALKS

Ernest Torrence and Raquel Torres as they appear in a scene in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," now in the making.

Here two movie portraits of Louis XIII. On the left you have him as he appeared in Douglas Fairbanks' "Three Musketeers." On the right he is seen as he looks in Doug's latest, "The Iron Mask." Adolphe Menjou played the first Louis. Rolfe Sedan is Louis No. 2.

Jeanne Eagels, stage star, is making screen talkies now. Here she is in a scene from "The Letter," 100 per cent dialogue.

CHARLES KING LEAVES STAGE FOR FIRST FILM ROLE IN "BROADWAY MELODY"

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.

TWO of the three principals in "The Broadway Melody," Charles King and Anita Page, were unknown to most screen fans a year ago, while the third featured player, Bessie Love, makes her talking picture debut in the present picture. "The Broadway Melody" is the photoplay sensation of the sound screen.

Charles King

King, who plays Eddie, is a Manhattanite by birth, and has lived in New York all his life except when serving in the Navy or trouping out in the provinces. His wife is a first cousin of George M. Cohan, and they have a beautiful home at Great Neck, L. I., which may be bad news for the more susceptible of the flappers.

Given his first chance outside of vaudeville by George M. Cohan, King appeared first in "The Yankee Prince," fulfilled a special engagement at the Rivoli in London, and after 18 months of submarine dodging, played in the Ziegfeld "Follies," "Good Morning Judge," "The Little Millionaire," with Al Jolson in "The Honeymoon Express," and several other popular musicals. Later he scored a great hit in "Hit the Deck," and was playing in Philadelphia in "Present Arms" when Louis K. Sidney, M-G-M executive, arranged an interview with Louis B. Mayer and a screen test. After the first "rushes" of "The Broadway Melody" were inspected, King's rich baritone voice was thought to be ideal for talking and singing pictures, and he was signed to a long-term contract. His first action then was to wire to his wife to come to Hollywood.

Actor Enjoys Horse Racing

KING is a great animal lover. His Long Island home is famous for its polo ponies and dogs, and his best-liked house pet is an English bulldog. He admits his favorite week-end diversion now is to run down to Tiajuana for the races.

Anita Page

Anita Page, who plays "Queenie in "The Broadway Melody," owns up to 18 birthdays and is also a newcomer to the films. After appearing in only a couple of photoplays she was selected as a Wampas Baby Star, and her future is believed to be a brilliant one.

Officials of the company still chuckle over the story of her initial visit to the M-G-M studio, where an interview had been arranged for her by her energetic mother. It was one morning last spring, and it looked like rain. Anita had a cold, her hair wasn't curled and she was inclined to be fretful after the long bus ride. Sam Wood, director, and John Lancsater, casting director, suggested a screen test.

Anita Wanted To Go Home

"I DON'T want to—I want to home!" pouted the girl.

The two directors had never heard of a girl who wouldn't jump at the chance for a screen test, and they were astonished. At the same time, a casual interest on their part was transformed into a positive insistence on a test. The independent young visitor was photographed that day and within a week had been given the leading feminine role in William Haines' "Telling the World."

As soon as this film was completed the young actress was given a long-term contract, while enthusiastic moguls evidenced a desire to make her work overtime. She appeared successfully opposite Lon Chaney in "While the City Sleeps," with Joan Crawford in "Our Dancing Daughters," and opposite Ramon Novarro in the "The Flying Fleet." Then she was given her most important part in "The Broadway Melody."

Born in Flushing, Long Island, Miss Page atended a New York high school, then joined a small free-lance movie unit which was a financial failure. Finally she persuaded her mother to chaperon her to Hollywood, where, like pre-cinema Caesar, she saw and conquered.

Bessie Love

BESSIE LOVE, seen as Anita Page's older sister, 'Hank," supplies a shining example of a girl who combined unusual perseverance and resourcefulness with natural talent to win a place on the top rung of the movie ladder.

A little more than a year ago, Miss Love, a D. W. Griffith alumna, decided that it was time to do something about her career other than accept so-and-so-pictures. The talking films were just beginning to win a hearing. The actress had an idea and with unusual foresight she followed it through. For a long time she had been very popular at house parties as a dancer and ukelele tickler, but had never tried to cultivate her voice. She started taking lessons and made remarkable progress.

Song and Dance Act a Winner

LEAVING pictures she accepted a season's vaudeville contract. Her song-and-dance act proved a sensation, and was the direct means of giving her a chance to do an equally successful Movietone short. Harry Beaumont saw it and told M-G-M executives that he had found the ideal girl to play with Anita Page in "The Broadway Melody." After the first song numbers had been seen Miss Love was signed to a five-year contract and the dialogue and music writers were told to get busy and provide some other good roles for her.

Miss Love appears indefatigable. During a recent "vacation" visit to New York she relaxed from the strain of a 12 to 18-hour studio day by taking singing and dancing lessons for four hours daily, shopping and trying on gowns for three hours.

TWO CONGRESSWOMEN TO SPEAK OVER RADIO TONIGHT

DANCE CALLERS OPEN ANNUAL CONTEST

By DARRILL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

Modernistic music, some of it of the "creepy" variety, supplies atmospheric background for the "Camoah Mystery," a new feature which starts tonight over KDKA at 9 p. m.

Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the famous William Jennings Bryan, and Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna, will speak over WJAS at 10 p. m.

Will Rhodes, tenor, will sing Cadman's "I Hear a Thrush at Eve" on the Pittsburgh period, KDKA, at 10:01 o'clock.

Out of town there are several fine attractions.

Carveth Wells, noted British explorer, who recently returned from the Mountains of the Moon district of Africa, will describe that wild country over WMAQ tonight at 8:25 o'clock. His subject will be "Coldest Africa."

"Allemande and Swing Your Honeys" is but one of scores of old time barn dance calls that will vie for places at the microphone of WLS at 9 o'clock when the Fourth Annual Barn Dance Callers' Contest gets under way. Winners will be determined by the vote of listeners.

Amelia Earhart, the only woman to cross the Atlantic by airplane, and William P. McCracken, Jr., assistant secretary for aeronautics, Department of Commerce, will send personal greetings to Commander Richard Byrd and men of his expedition at Little America, in Antarctica, from WGY at 11 o'clock. Both are personal friends of Mr. Byrd.

We find Graham McNamee in a new role at 8 tonight announcing a championship basketball game from Glen Falls, N. Y., through Station WGY.

ON DISAPPOINTMENTS

Listeners who turned to WJAS last night for "Closeups," featuring Mortimer and Gwendolyn, "movie stars," were disappointed when that station broadcast a choir from New York. In absolving the local station of any blame, Howard E. Clark, manager, declared that the program was changed by the Columbia System management without notice. Fans wishing to eliminate occurrences of this kind should write letters of complaint either to the Columbia Broadcasting System, Paramount Building, New York, or to the Radio Department, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Only by complaining to the managements of the national networks can we hope to eliminate these disappointments.

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

High School Contest Held at W.-J. Today

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 23.—More than 125 students from 18 of the 27 high schools in Washington county will participate this afternoon and tonight in the eleventh annual interscholastic forensic contest under the auspices of Washington and Jefferson College. The High Schools to be represented are Charleroi, Centerville, East Bethlehem, East Washington, Independence, McDonald, Midway, Mt. Pleasant, Peters, Union of Burgettstown, Washington, Cecil, Ellsworth, Trinity, Bentleyville, Morris, East Bethlehem, and California. Events included are declamation, select oration, essay, prepared discussion, spelling, oral reading, letter writing and extemporaneous speaking.

COPELAND SAYS PROHIBITION HAS FAILED

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, United States senator from New York, eminent medical authority and formerly health commissioner of the City of New York, declared yesterday in an interview given the Hearst newspapers that the temperance objective of prohibition could never be attained by the present law.

The senator heartily approved the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest as a means to find ameliorative legislation which will bring about an end of the present intolerable conditions.

He went on to say:

"An impulse that is founded upon an appetite cannot be controlled by a legislative enactment. No system of temperance or abstinence can be achieved except by the education route. We must convince the minds of the people before we try to control their acts.

"To achieve any such reform as was aimed at by the prohibition laws, we must first show the necessity of such reforms from the standpoint of health and morals. Otherwise reform legislation is very likely to fail because of an unconvinced public. The chief weakness of prohibition today lies in the fact that the average citizen refuses to believe that it is a crime to take a drink.

"When the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law were enacted, the good people responsible for them were like the man who owed money to everybody in town and who had none to pay. He went to the bank, gave his note and said, 'Thank God, that's settled.'

"When the moral leaders got the prohibition laws passed, they said, 'Thank God, that's settled,' and let the matter stand. But it was not settled. They shifted the burden to officers who had to try to enforce an unpopular law. They thought their battle was won and so gave up their work of educating the younger generation on the harmul effects of hard liquor.

"The result is that today we have a rising generation which has not been taught the value of temperance, or possibly of abstinence, from the standpoint of health and morals. The result is that prohibition has not made much progress."

WOMEN DRUG ADDICTS REHABILITATED IN W. VA.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—In an isolated mountain community near Alderson, W. Va., the Federal government is conducting a great humanitarian experiment in the rehabilitation of drug addicts.

There at the Federal Industrial Institution for Women, a pet project of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, addiction is regarded as a disease and an effort is being made to effect a permanent cure through individual treatment.

The institution has approximately 315 inmates, of which nearly 70 per cent are addicts. The drugs most used by these women were morphine, cocaine, heroin and opium.

RESULTS GRATIFYING

Upon admittance, the drug is withdrawn from the addict, but in extreme cases compensatory treatments are given, such as baths and injections of non-habit forming sedatives. Each addict is closely guarded and gets individual medical care. The results have been gratifying to the authorities.

This institution may furnish a pattern for the two federal narcotic farms authorized in the last Congress. Dr. Walter L. Treadway, of the Public Health Service, who is in charge of the plans for the farms, has inspected Alderson and will visit other institutions where addicts are treated before determining upon the methods to be utilized at the two farms.

WORK DESCRIBED

In describing addiction treatments at Alderson, the superintendent said:

"For drug addiction, the medical treatment is based on a study of the needs of the individual patient, for here, if anywhere, there is need for individualization.

"A regimen may be established for the majority of cases, but there should always be account taken of the attending symptoms of the individual, as in any other disease. When we consider the great variation in the etiology of drug addiction, the environmental and physical background which is never the same in two cases, individualization of treatment seems the only rational approach to this difficult problem. Prolonged after-care under close observation, healthy outdoor occupation, a full program of work, study and recreation tending to build up new interests and habits of thought must all be part of the program and be continued long after the physical craving has ceased, if there is to be a permanent 'cure.'

"All these must be matters of individual study, and readjustment should be made in the program from time to time, as new ambition is aroused."

Real Estate

An eight-room brick residence on 60x175 feet at 215 Richland avenue, Fourteenth Ward, has been sold by Albert P. Weitzel to John M. Hipple. The buyer takes the property for a home.

In Edgewood, Dr. I. M. Eisaman has conveyed to Hugh McGreevey a house on 45x171 feet in Maple avenue for $17,250.

The C. L. Saxton Company sold for Floyd Rose to J. Willard Anderson a strip of land in West Swissvale avenue, adjoining the Anderson residence.

A six-room house on 73x109 feet at the corner of Race street and Pennwood avenue, Edgewood, has been sold by Frank De Cecco to Nydia C. Wallace.

In Wilkinsburg, Martha Barr has conveyed to William A. Fahnestock 35x105 feet in Ardmore boulevard.

In Shaler Township, W. S. Murphy sold for the Jacob Brenkle estate to John Hoffman a house with seven acres of ground in Mt. Troy road.

A property in Hillsdale avenue, Dormont, lot 41x111 feet, has been sold by Gertrude M. Walker to William A. Keller.

Walter C. Crothers has sold to the Russell, Burdsall & Ward Bolt and Nut Co. 47x145 feet in Thorn street, Sewickley.

Film Cancelled, Star Sues for Pay

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(AP.)—Alberta Vaughn, petite star of college life as seen by motion picture producers, has filed suit for $2,000 from the Trinity Picture Corporation for work she didn't do, but which she said she wanted to do. She claimed she held a contract for two pictures to be made in two weeks at a salary of $1,000 a week but that the company never filmed her.

Students Need Time for Interests and Activities Outside of School

The children pay the cost of the long school hours in HEALTH: Seven hours of continuous confinement within a high school, with its concomitant rush, its lack of recreation, its overfatigue, its loss of normal exercise during the hours of sunshine, is too long for an adolescent child.

PERSONAL CULTURE: Seven continuous hours in school means that the honor pupil, to maintain his grades must surrender all active participation in:

Music Practice
Church Activities
Concerts
Library Browsing
Home Duties
After School Jobs
Social Functions
School Leadership

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT: The very type of student, i. e., the responsible type, from whom come the leaders in a community, is the one penalized by such confining school hours. It is he who conscientiously prepares his work and leaves himself no time for finding himself.

Other Cities Comparable With Pittsburgh Have Not Changed to Longer Schoolday

New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, for example, are not finding it necessary or advisable to introduce the experiment. The Pennsylvania School Code provides for five and a half hour day, exclusive of lunch and recess periods, unless the local Boards of Education change it.

What Is Accomplished in This Long Session Which Could Not Be Accomplished Formerly?

Since the time added to the day was distributed by adding about five minutes to every period (in the High School), there were no more periods for enriching the curriculum. The periods were made 50 minutes long instead of forty-five. WHAT RADICAL CHANGES COULD BE EFFECTED in five more minutes? Certainly that was not enough time in which to do all the home work.

Teachers Also Work Under Hardship

with the long hours. They are deprived of time necessary for recreation outside activities, opportunities for personal development. Overfatigue makes proper preparation for the next day's classes and correcting of papers a real burden, and brings the conscientious teacher back to her next day's work fagged.

THE TEACHERS THEREFORE ADD THEIR PLEA TO THAT OF

The Parents to Attend Mass Meeting, Tuesday, March 26, 1929—8 P. M.

H. C. FRICK TRAINING SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS
Thackeray Street, near Fifth Avenue

Purposes of the Meeting:

1—To urge the Board of Education to consider the request of parents made Tuesday.
2—To effect a permanent organization of Parents.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

NO SMALL boy with his first pair of "single-runners" could thrill to skimming over the pond any more than that group of society folks calling itself the Pittsburgh Figure Skating Club enjoys the sport of skating every Wednesday night at Duquesne Garden. And I think you would be surprised to know how many really fine figure skaters have been developed among the members of the club, which, by the way, is a branch of the National Figure Skating Association.

These folks are perfectly at home on the ice, and many of them have skated at Lake Placid, St. Moritz, in Switzerland, and Chamounix, in France. They are masters of all sorts of fancy figures, and find the keenest sport in executing them well. There are, I believe, about 50 members in all, and as I said before, they come to the Garden each Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock to spend an hour or two on the ice.

This group of skaters has Mrs. Jerome Hill for its president, and Mrs. George Kountz as its secretary and director. I looked in on them Wednesday evening and saw quite a few familiar faces among the skaters. One of our most popular debutantes of the past winter, Louise Reed, was there, and so was her father, W. Edgar Reed.

THERE is going to be still another interesting wedding in April, I hear. All this week there has been one announcement after another of dates chosen in this popular month, and now Mary Kathryn Knapp has selected the fifteenth for her marriage. Kathryn is the daughter of the Lawrence Wendell Knopps, who have moved from Bartlett street and are living in the Schenley Apartments, and her engagement to Nielien Otterbein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clemens Otterbein, of Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, was announced in December.

The wedding will take place in the Knapp home, and the guest list is to be limited strictly to members of the immediate families and a few close friends. The bridal party hasn't been quite completed, so I will have to tell you about that later.

AND now for the travelers! Did you know that Mrs. Rudolph Van Hoevenberg, of New York, and her children, Janjette and James Dumond Van Hoevenberg, are in Sewickley, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Marcelin Scaife? Faber Downey, Jr., of Woodland road, Sewickley.

Out in California are Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lewis, of the Schenley Apartments. They are, I believe, spending about two months there. And also among the travelers are Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Williams, of Pembroke place, who sailed yesterday on the Aquitania for a short trip to Europe.

Anniversary Held By College Club

"B" IS for beginnings, birthdays, Bessemer, benefits and browsing—at least that's what the second alphabetical sign stood for with the College Club yesterday afternoon when more than 100 members met to celebrate the club's twentieth anniversary at a charmingly appointed luncheon in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Annex. Mrs. James M. Graham, Jr., the president, was toastmistress and the speakers were Mrs. Charles H. Spencer, Mrs. Charles Reitell, Mrs. A. W. McEldowney and Miss Roberta Tener Johns. Mrs. Spencer, in characteristically delightful fashion, told of the "Beginnings" of the club and its development from the Association of Collegiate Alumnae. Miss Johns had "Bessemer" as her subject and described the club life during the days in the downtown office building where bells, and blasts and blowing whistles from trains and boats drove the members to seek shelter farther from the heart of town. Then Mrs. McEldowney had some humorous observations on the three big theatrical benefits by which the members financed the $5,000 College Club Annex to the Tuberculosis League Hospital, while "Browsing for High Brows" was the alliterative subject assigned Mrs. Reitell for her sprightly bit of nonsense which had to do with the recent formation of the reading groups.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND

Too Much Women

HOW, oh, my daughter, shall a damsel of the New Babylon find favor in the eyes of men? Yea, how shall she deport herself, that she may be admired and courted, and left not at home by her own steam-heatside?

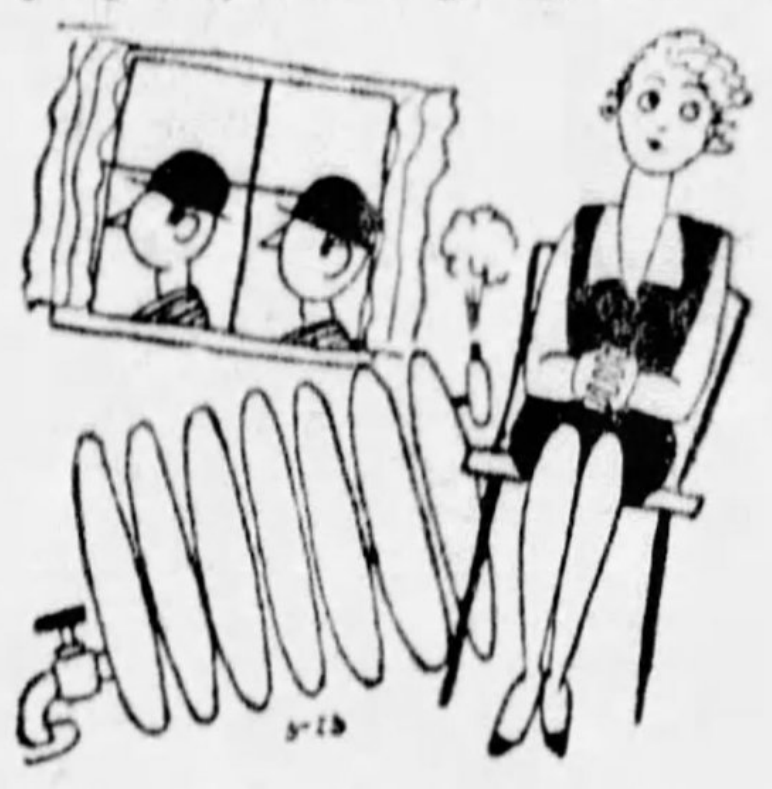
For, lo, when she heedeth the copy-book wisdom, and is full of propriety and dignity, and difficult to kiss, men say, "Ho, hum! She is a flat tire!"



* * *

And when a man hath sat out three dances beside her, behold he departeth and showeth up no more.

Yet if she is full of pep and modernism and ardor and responsiveness, men say, "Ho, hum! She is just like all the rest!"

* * *

And when a man hath kissed her three times, behold, he departeth and showeth up no more.

* * *

If she is wise to their ways and laugheth off their love-making, men call her "Cynic" and she is as a persimmon to their teeth.

* * *

And if she is simple and impressionable and taketh all their words seriously, they call her "Dumb-bell" and shy at sight of her.

* * *

Is she displayeth her knees and tosseth off a cocktail like a veteran, men wonder and look at her with disillusioned eyes.

Yet if she doeth the shrinking violet and refuseth the cocktail, they do not look at her at all! She is a soft drink before dinner—innocuous!

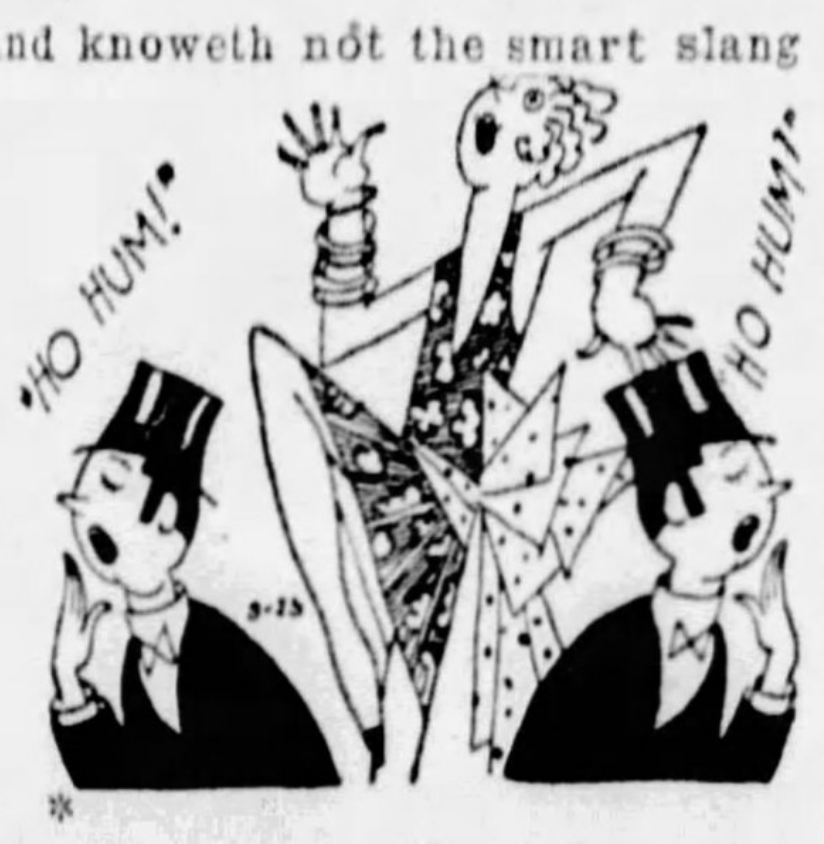
If she seeketh to be scintillating, and is full of repartee and wittiness, she affrighteth men and causeth them to flee to cover.

* * *

But if she is silent and shy and knoweth not the smart slang and the snappy answer, she boreth them to tears, and causeth them to flee to other women.



"HO HUM!"

How, then, shall a damsel of the New Babylon find favor in the eyes of men?

For, alas, their eyes have been opened and they have seen too MUCH of women! And there is no mystery and no novelty and no surprise left IN them.

* * *

Whatsoever a damsel may do to charm them, that have many damsels done before. Whatsoever her line, they have heard it many times. And whatsoever her game, it is as last year's popular son, and as last season's comedy, an old one.

* * *

Verily, verily, men have become TOO wise to women, and their hearts are full of weariness.

* * *

And it hath come to pass that a man's "love" seldom lasteth beyond the third kiss. SELAH.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Broken Rest Apt to Follow Night Meals

IN the Senate barber shop a few days ago, one of my colleagues inquired the cause of nightmares. Of course, there are plenty of citizens of the United States who would say at once that the Senators themselves are the chief cause of nightmares!

DR. COPELAND

But here comes a letter from the editor of a newspaper in Canada asking the same question. Since nightmare appears to be an international or universal complaint, it surely deserves special consideration.

Anything that interferes with restful sleep is a matter of importance. It cannot be neglected. Unless some means can be found to permit normal rest at night, there is sure to be undermining of the health.

True insomnia, as chronic failure to sleep is called, is one of the most distressing of human ailments. Babies have disturbances of sleep, due usually to wrong feeding. Ordinarily this takes the form of restlessness rather than actual wakefulness. But grown men and women may find themselves unable to sleep the number of hours necessary for their well-being. This is serious.

The broken sleep may be a condition lasting for weeks or months. About this I shall speak again.

In children we meet what is commonly referred to as "night terrors." The youngster wakes up with a scream, and sobs in fear. Because of the fright, sleep is impossible for several hours, perhaps.

There a number of things that have this effect on the quality of sleep. The lack of ventilation of the sleeping room is a common cause for broken rest. It is essential to physical comfort to have plenty of air.

In the next place it is important to be lightly covered. If the bed clothing is too heavy, there will be such disturbance of comfort as to be disturbing to body and brain.

If there is such discomfort as I have mentioned there will be dreams and, if they are of a frightful character, there may be nightmare. A dream of burglars or murder will cause the victim to cry out in his sleep and to awaken in fright or temper.

It is probable the most common cause for disturbed sleep, frightful dreams and nightmare, is indiscretion in eating. Taking a rich, full meal late at night will create gastric activity that is almost certain to cause dreams. Then may come the nightmare.

Chronic constipation, with intestinal fermentation, will do the same thing. If gases form in the abdomen, there are set up nervous impulses which may end in nightmare.

These are some of the comments which I care to make today regarding this subject. On another occasion I shall say more.

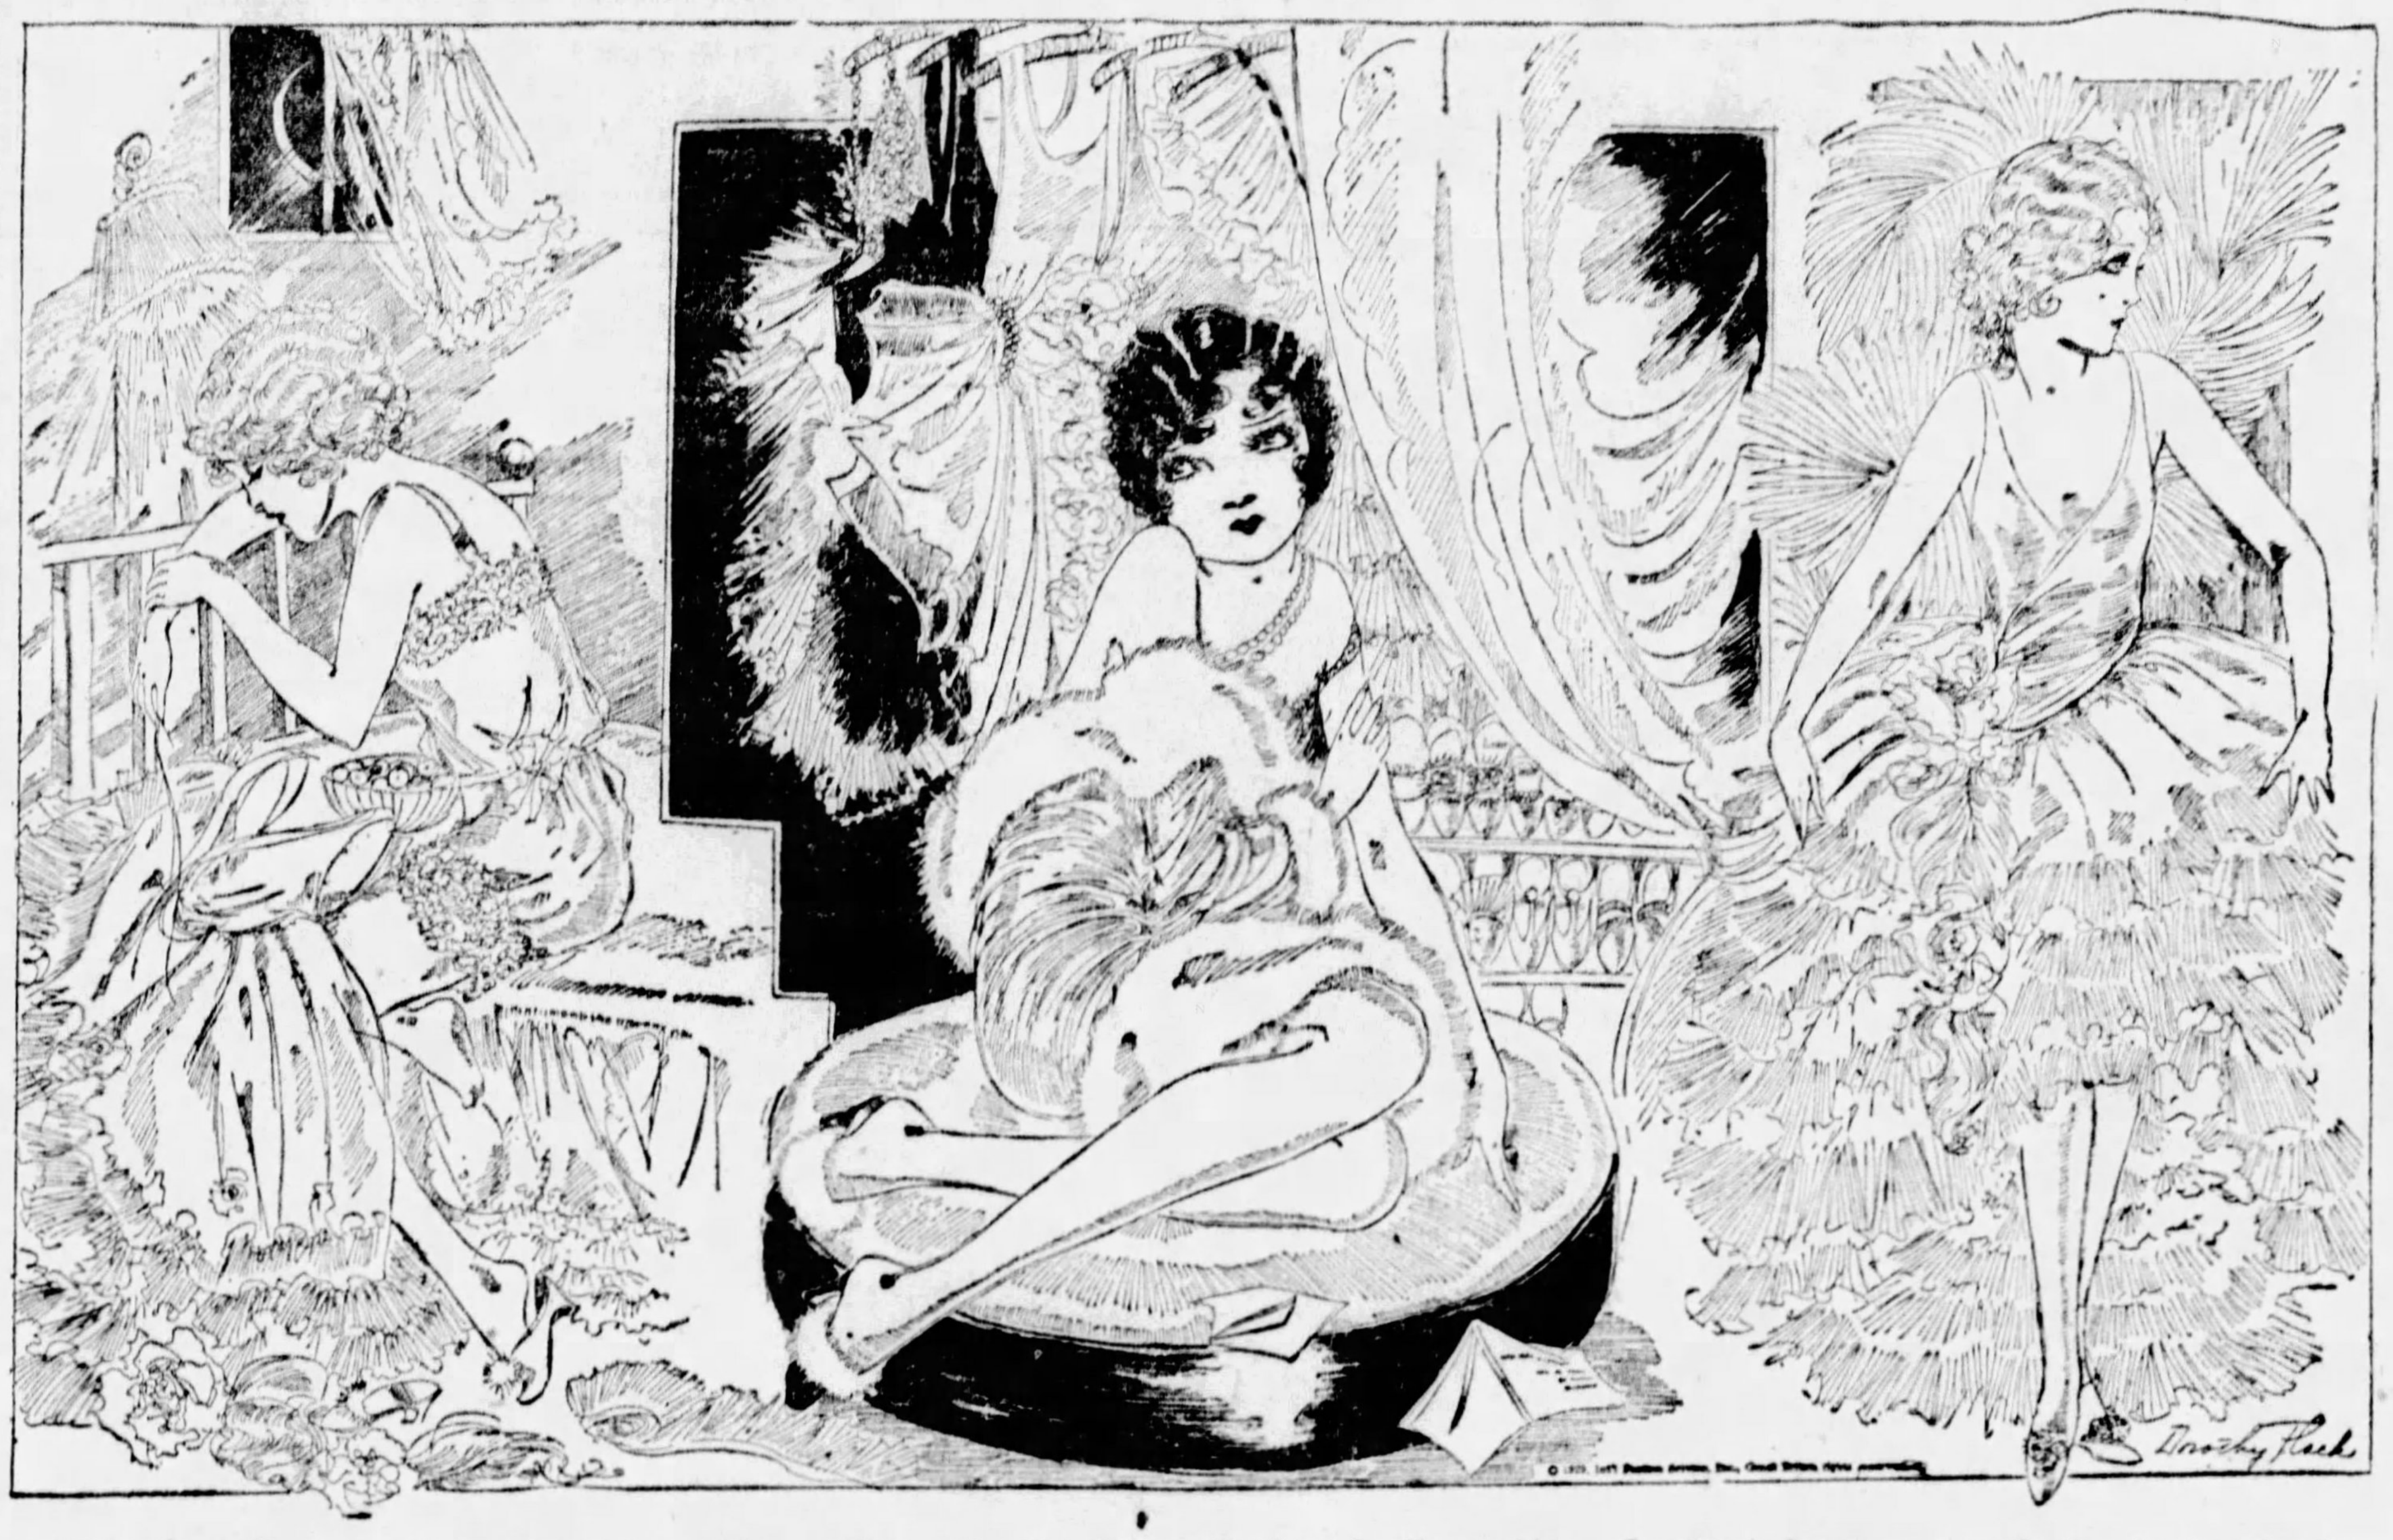
NOTHING TO WEAR

Drawn by Dorothy Flack



HOW many times have you heard a girl say, "Oh, I couldn't go! I simply have nothing to wear!" And you know full well that they have closets just packed with lovely things and you ponder on woman's vanity.

And then again you've heard a little girl sadly decry the fact that she can't accept an invitation because she has nothing to wear and you know that she speaks the truth. One poor little gown that has been made and remade, furbished and refurbished, dyed and turned and twisted until there's hardly anything at all left of the original. And this is tragedy! And your heart aches for her and you wish you could dash out and buy everything in sight for her, only you know her pride would never let her accept.

And so it goes! But I'm wondering if the girl whose sole thought is clothes and more clothes is ever half as happy as the girl with one dress. She can go out and get every bit of enjoyment out of the evening, for she knows she isn't invited for her gorgeous gowns, but for her own sweet self. And Love finds her more promptly than he does her better dressed sisters. And she's happier in Love than her more affluent sisters, too. For Love to her is something wonderful and thrilling, and it doesn't matter whether she has one dress or a million, then.

And this fact doesn't matter to Love, either, for it isn't the clothes that attract him; it's the heart that beats so steadfastly and so staunchly and so loyally. And rags are a queen's raiment in the eyes of Love. So never feel that clothes matter. Really, they don't. It's only Love that counts.

Horoscopes

Sunday, March 24

SUNDAY'S horoscope favors the mystical, introspective and cultural avocations normal to the Sabbath day. Little else seems to be encouraged by the stellar mutations. Social activities are not promising, even those in behalf of church activities. It is a time for serious thought or pursuit.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a rather routine or mediocre year, with little gain or satisfaction, although certain new projects may lure. Mental occupations may find steady growth.

A child born on this day may be inclined to serious thought or labors, having a studious or deep mind, possibly with a trend toward the mystical. Yet it will not lack in popularity or lighter qualities.

Content thyself to be obscurely good.—Addison.

Monday, March 25

MONDAY'S astrological forecast may be said to be portentious of hostilities, vexations and defeats. There will be many forms and phases of disappointment, opposition and contention, and these may be aggravated or contributed to by individual tumult, impetuosity and want of civility. Only calm control, patience and perseverance will forestall devastation and loss. Beware false moves or changes.

Those whose birthday it is are not promised a notably successful or satisfactory year. The delays, obstacles and trials should be met with patience, equanimity and optimism rather than tumult and tempest.

A child born on this day may require very careful training and discipline from earliest infancy, as it may have many contradictory qualities which could be developed and diverted into channels of happy usefulness. Perhaps its tendency to change may be wisely catered to in order to bring control and equipoise.

Things at the worst will cease, or else climb upward to what they were before.—Shakespeare.

Harry's Face a Study as Lillian Hands Over the Telegram

SIR WALTER RALEIGH, in his celebrated gesture of spreading his cloak beneath Queen Elizabeth's feet, was not more courtly in appearance or manner than was Harry Underwood as he helped Mother Graham from the new car. Then with her hand resting upon his arm, he brought her across the lawn and up the steps to the veranda door, Katherine close behind him, and Dicky, with Junior perched upon his shoulder, bringing up the rear.

"Are you tired, Mother Graham?" Mr. Underwood asked solicitously as they came inside the door. "Shall I help you upstairs?"

"I enjoyed it too much to be tired," she told him with enthusiasm, her cheeks faintly pink, her eyes bright as a young girl's. I know of no one who has a greater capacity for whole-souled enjoyment of pleasure than has my mother-in-law when she can conquer her captiousness long enough to set her free from its inhibition. "But I think I will go upstairs."

"Let me help you," Katherine said, slipping into place by her side and deftly drawing her hand through her own arm. "Junior and I are going to have a nap before dinner, and I think you'd enjoy one too."

Mother Graham considered the question gravely, standing hesitant, with her hand upon Katherine's arm.

"I think that is a very good idea," she said judicially at last. "Thank you so much, Mr. Underwood, for an extremely pleasant drive."

She made her slow progress up the stairs with the air of a conquering general returning amid the plaudits of his followers. Dicky and Harry stood literally at attention until she had disappeared from view, then they came over to Lillian and me.

"Behold the champion diplomat of the age," Dicky intoned softly. "Mother is probably by and large the best—or the worst—back-seat driver in the country, but this bird managed to keep the boat sailing along with never a yeep out of her."

"Your mother isn't a back-seat driver at all," Mr. Underwood told him softly. "She's a connoisseur, that's all, and of course when she has a chance to sit behind a real artist instead of the dub who usually takes her——"

"Don't you dare insult my wife, sir!" Dicky exclaimed, extending his hand dramatically toward me. "She's not a dub, and she always drives my mother——"

"Because the dear old girl knows better than to risk her life with you," his friend retorted. "Lady Fair, you know I didn't mean you, don't you?"

"Of course," I told him, laughing, and then Lillian held up the telegram.

"This came while you were gone, Harry," she said quietly, "and I opened it as usual. If we had known in which direction you were going, Madge and I would have followed you, but as it was there was nothing else to do but wait until you came home. I do hope it didn't require an immediate answer."

Harry Underwood's face was a study as he took from his wife's hand the telegram which we both knew he had caused to be sent to himself that he might have an excuse to go to the city and leave Marion and her mother to themselves for the rest of the girl's vacation. He read it through, and then asked sharply:

"When did the boy come? What did he say?"

"He came just after you left," Lillian said, and I caught an upward movement of Dicky's eyebrows which I knew meant annoyance at the messenger's stupidity. "He seemed to have it mixed up with another telegram, an answer to one you had sent this morning, and which he evidently figured he must deliver only to you—you know what 'Casabiancas on the burning deck,' these messengers are sometimes—but I finally persuaded him to let me have it."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Dance Etiquette

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When I have danced with a person who thanks me for the dance, what is an appropriate answer besides "You are welcome?"

2. When I am dancing with a young man and we bump into another couple, which of us should pardon ourselves, and what should be the response.

3. When I am in a theater and a person asks me where I live and what my name is, should I answer if I do not know the person? If I should answer, shall I give my correct name and address?

4. Is it correct to dance with a stranger?

5. Will you please criticize my letter and handwriting?

VIVIAN.

YOU do not say "You are welcome," but rather you suggest this and your own pleasure in the dance, when you say, "That was a delightful dance," or "It was a most delightful dance, Bob," or "I enjoyed that dance so very much, Bob."

2. The young man should ask the pardon of the other couple, and the other man bow his acknowledgment.

3. You naturally would not answer when a person unknown to you asks you such a rude question.

4. No.

5. Your handwriting is good, very good, and will be better when you delete the many curlicues. It is extremely legible, and full of character. And your letter form is excellent. Don't write a comma after the name of the month.

After-Theater Supper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I would like to know what is the correct food to order in a restaurant after one comes out of the theater.

2. Which hand and finger should a friendship ring be worn on?

S. J.

IF you will be kind enough to send me an addressed, stamped envelope I shall be most happy to send you my leaflet on foods and beverages that are appropriate to order after the theater. I have tried to list everything that can possibly be thought of—from the humble "sandwich and coffee" to the most aristocratic of foods "under glass."

2. A ring should be worn on the finger on which it is most becoming. The only exception really is "the" finger, the third finger of the left hand, the finger that is glorified by the engagement ring and wedding ring. The handsome and aristocratic ladies in the wondrous old Italian paintings often wore their interesting rings on either the first or second finger of either hand.

Eating Canape

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct to eat a canape in the fingers or with a fork?

G. S.

IF the canape is served in the living room, with an aperitif, before dinner, the canape is eaten in the fingers. If it is served at table, as a first course, it is usually more elaborate and should be eaten with a fork, or with the small knife and fork. When it is served at table, it should not be eaten in the fingers.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Devine's Failures Rare.
Fine Average as Scout.
Thompson Near Record.
Allen's Rise Continues.
Why Some Hurlers Slip.
Victory of McLarnin.

MAGEE RECOMMENDS OWN SUCCESSOR

TWO more of Scout Joe Devine's pick-ups were listed as failures when the Pirate management handed walking papers to First Baseman Basil Panella and Outfielder Louis Martin the other day, but Pitcher Larry French, on the other hand, gives every promise of making good, so that the Buccaneer ivory-hunter is likely to have one success out of three experiments to his credit this spring. That's a pretty good average, as scouting records go, and when you consider that Devine was responsible for the coming of Paul Waner, Remy Kremer, Dick Bartell and others to the Corsairs it will be seen that he has made a far better record than most big league agents.

Joe Devine

And it will be observed that, as a general rule, the boys recommended by Devine who fail to come through are kids off the lots who did not cost the Pittsburgh club anything. It doesn't mean any financial loss if these are unable to make the grade. It is the high-priced failures that hit the big league baseball treasuries hard, and when you make a general survey of the deals of that character made by the major league clubs each year it will be found that Devine's record is one of the very best.

WHEN a big league club buys a young ball player from the minors for a fancy price and the youngster then fails to measure up to requirements, the result is a heavy financial loss, as on account of his failure the recruit has to be disposed of by the major league club at a price far below that originally paid for him.

In that connection, Barney Dreyfuss once rated as his most valuable scout a man who had not recommended a player in several years of duty on the coast. That scout was George Van Haltren, who played center field for Pittsburgh back in 1892 and 1893. "He hasn't sent a single player to us," the the Pirate president, one day, "and yet he's the most valuable scout we've got, because he's saved us a small fortune by steering us away from lemons—saving us from spending big money for highly touted young players who later failed with other clubs."

LAFAYETTE FRESCO THOMPSON, whose work around second base for the Quakers fills Pittsburgh rooters with gloom when they recall that on the judgment of Bill McKenchnie, Fred Clarke and others, the local club let him get away in 1925, is shaping up this spring in more impressive fashion than ever.

In an exhibition game against the Brooklyn club this week Thompson gave one of the greatest exhibitions seen anywhere this spring. He accepted 17 fielding chances without a slip, making nine putouts and eight assists, and in the eighth inning he won the game for the Phils with a triple that drove in two runs.

Fresco Thompson

THOUGH Thompson's performance at second base in this game will not receive any official recognition by reason of the fact that it was not made in a championship contest, it is interesting to note that the former Pirate came within a single chance of equaling the all-time major league record for fielding at the midway station. That mark is 18 chances accepted, first made by Tom Hawks, of Troy, in 1879, and equaled by Fred Dunlap while with Cleveland in 1882, and by Cupid Childs while with Syracuse in 1890. Thompson's total never has been beaten in the American League, and has been reached only once, Jimmy Dykes, of the Athletics, accepting 17 chances at second base on August 28, 1921.

WHILE Jack Parmelee is being lauded as the winning jockey in last Sunday's Coffroth handicap at Tia Juana, the richest stake in the turf world, and Earl Sande is once more in the spotlight since his decision to try a come-back this year as the rider of his own entries, turf followers are also paying a little more attention than formerly to C. E. Allen, the New Kensington jockey.

Allen's latest performance has made the boys sit up. He rode Naishapur to second place behind Golden Prince in the rich Coffroth handicap, exceeding all expectations by his splendid showing with his mount. A few weeks earlier, Allen rode the winner in the Tia Juana Derby. Last year he won the Louisiana Derby and was fourth in the Kentucky Derby. His latest evidence of class is certain to win for the New Kensington lad much recognition that he has been unjustly denied in the past.

YOU often see boxers try to be fighters when they get into the ring, and fighters who endeavor to be boxers and show how clever they are. Usually, the consequences are disastrous, as in the case of Dominick Profio, who gave up slugging to try to box with Tiger Joe Randall here last week.

Well, there are some baseball pitchers patterned along the same mental lines. They can't let well enough alone. If they are speed pitchers they can't be stopped from tinkering with what they are pleased to call a curve ball that they have developed, and if they are curve ball pitchers they've just got to try something else. They can't see that they're making a mistake by changing a natural style.

Guy Bush

THE Chicago Cubs, according to reports, have a hurler of this type in the person of Guy Bush. He is a successful pitcher, in a sense, but he ought to be even more so. It is said that Bush, though essentially an overhand pitcher, and a good one at that style, is continually experimenting with other deliveries and seemingly cannot be cured of the habit. Last season, though his fast one was winning for him, he persisted in trying out a change of pace, with the result that he was hit hard. This spring, he is reported to be trying to make a side-arm pitcher instead of an overhand flinger out of himself, and again he is finding it difficult to get anybody out. Manager Joe McCarthy has about decided to see whether a threat to send Bush to Los Angeles or Reading, Cub farm, will not have more effect than all the coaxing that has been wasted during the last season or two.

QUEER how the fates work toward an end sometimes. Last fall, Sherwood Magee, then a baseball umpire in the National League, urged League President Heydler to obtain for his staff a fellow Philadelphian, Ed McLaughlin. Magee recommended the last named so strongly that Heydler promised to give him the first vacancy.

Heydler has just kept his word. He has appointed McLaughlin to the National League staff, but the appointment was made possible only by the death of Magee himself. Sherry died last week and now his place is to be filled by the man whom he recommended. McLaughlin is not related to Pete McLaughlin, who was a National League umpire for some time prior to the 1928 season. Ed has been umpiring in the Southern Association, and the National bought his release from that league.

THERE isn't much glory in being declared the winner of such a poor fight as that of last night, or in defeating a lightweight opponent whom you outweigh by more than five pounds, particularly when that opponent doesn't make any more of an attempt to put up a real battle than Ray Miller did, but for all that Jimmy McLarnin came out of the disappointing affair with considerable to his credit.

For one thing he endeavored to make a fight of it and earned a place among those rare ring warriors who were able to come back

CHAMPS DEFEND STATE TITLE TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

West will challenge the East tonight when Sharon High School, winner of the Western Pennsylvania laurels, clashes with Hazleton High School, last year's champion and winner of the eastern sectional title, at 8 o'clock, in the final battle of the P. I. A. A. tournament at the University of Pittsburgh Stadium pavilion for the interscholastic basketball championship of the state.

Sharon and Hazleton won the right to battle in the final round as a result of scoring impressive victories in the semi-finals at the Stadium pavilion last night, the Mercer countians defeating Altoona High School, Mountain League champion, 28 to 12, while Hazleton came through with its thirty-seventh successive victory, covering a stretch of two years, by humbling Reading, Central Pennsylvania champion, 34 to 16. Neither team was extended to qualify for a place in the championship game.

TWO CRACK TEAMS

The final contest brings together two smooth-working floor machines, both geared to perfection for the concluding battle of what promises to be the greatest game of the elimination series. While Hazleton will take the floor tonight a slight favorite over Coach Dickerson's passers as a result of winning 37 games in a row, the Mercer countians will not be without supporters as their last two victories, over Homestead, W. P. I. A. L. champion, and Altoona in the semi-finals last night, established them as one of the best quintets ever developed in Western Pennsylvania interscholastic circles.

Deems and McCamant, at forwards, and Murphy, at center, three boys who carried the Sharonites through the two tough contests with Homestead and Altoona, will bear the brunt of the Mercer County attack, while Serany and Fegley, forwards; Hildebrand, center, and Weston, guard, the mainsprings of the Hazleton attack, will attempt to give the Easterners their second straight state championship. These stars stood out brilliantly for their teams in the semi-finals and if they flash the same form tonight followers of the two teams should witness a conflict that should be nip-and-tuck from the start.

Sharon and Hazleton each was accompanied by a large delegation of supporters, who came to Pittsburgh in special trains to attend the series. The followers of both teams remained over in Pittsburgh to attend the deciding battle and indications are that a capacity crowd will witness the struggle tonight. Another delegation of Mercer countians is expected to arrive in town tonight to take in the final battle.

SHARON EASY WINNER

Sharon had little trouble winning from Altoona in the first of the semi-final battles. The Mercer countians, due in a large measure to the accurate shooting of Murphy and Deems, piled up a 10-to-1 lead at the end of the first period and this was sufficient to carry them through with points to spare. In the second period they again outscored the Altoona passers, registering eight points to their opponents' four, giving them a lead of 18 to 5 at the halfway point. Altoona struck its stride in the third period and for the only time in the game really outscored Sharon, the tally for the period being 7 to 5 with Sharon on the short end. Sharon, however, offset this belated rally by blanking Altoona in the closing session, registering five points while holding its opponents scoreless, this in spite of the fact that Murphy, its best bet, and Mitchell, star guard, were out of the game as a result of committing four fouls. Altoona was held to three field goals, two of which were made by Thompson.

READING DEFEATED

Like Sharon, Hazleton had little trouble winning its semi-final fray. Reading got away to a two-point lead in the first period, 5 to 3, but that was the only time the pretzel boys were in the running. Hazleton started to function on all cylinders in the second period with Serany and Fegley, two crack forwards, leading the assault and the end of the half found the Easterners leading their rivals by a count of 15 to 8. The next two periods again found the champions scoring at will.

Flashing a brand of teamplay that had their opponents bewildered during the entire last half, the Hazleton passers steadily improved their lead in the closing sessions. They outscored Reading, 10 to 6, in the third period, and 9 to 2 in the fourth.

Serany and Fegley, Hazleton forwards, each contributed five field goals to their team's scoring total, while Hildebrand and Weston each sent two double-deckers through the hoops. Kubacki and Nittinger were the best bets for the losers, the first getting three field goals while the second registered two. The lineups:

Sharon—28.		Altoona—12.
Deems	F	Wileman
McCamant	F	Bricker
Murphy	C	Weld
Laycock	G	Rush
Mitchell	G	Thompson

Sharon	10	8	5	5—28
Altoona	1	4	7	0—12

Substitutions—Johns for Murphy, Kievan for Bricker, Crompton for Mitchell, Burns for Deems, Claypool for Laycock, Lane for Wileman, Smith for Weld. Field goals—Deems 3, McCamant 2, Murphy 4, Laycock, Johns, Weld, Thompson 2. Foul goals—Sharon, 6 out of 10; Altoona, 6 out of 16. Referee—Frank McGuire. Umpire—Beggs Snyder. Time of periods—8 minutes.

Hazleton—34.		Reading—16.
Serany	F	Swoger
Fegley	F	Nittinger

GRIFFIN IN FINAL

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS.)—William J. Griffin, of Detroit, defending singles champion in the national four-wall handball tourney here, plays Al Banuet, 19-year-old sensation from San Francisco, in the final this afternoon. Griffin eliminated George A. Nelson, of Baltimore, 1927 champion, by a score of 21-10, 21-15. Banuet defeated Lane McMillan, his teammate from the Olympic Club, 16-21, 21-15, 21-4.

WILLIAM F. CAREY

Newly-elected president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, with whom Dempsey was associated in putting over the recent Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout at Miami Beach, Fla., and with whom he has broken to cast his fortune with Fugazy. Instead of being partners, Dempsey and Carey now will be rivals.

RAY MILLER BEATEN BY M'LARNIN

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Two vaunted lightweight punchers, Jimmy McLarnin, the bucking Celt, and Ray Miller, blond left-hook artist from Chicago, met in what should have been a furious combat last night—and turned in a battle as tame and featureless as their first meeting was bloody and spectacular.

Where there might have been smashing punching, furious rallies, knockdowns and finally a knockout, such as McLarnin suffered in their first engagement in Detroit, there was nothing but clinches, frantic scurrying around to evade the lightning that never struck, and the cagey sparring of over-cautious young business men. What heavy hitting there was, McLarnin did for the most part, and he won the decision amid a steady rising storm of boos from 21,000 of the faithful who paid more than $111,000 to see the action.

JIM MASTERS RAY

Irish Jimmy, who has turned in such spectacular performances in other appearances, also won whatever honor there was in the fray. He mastered Miller thoroughly, but not damagingly, was stung rarely by the blond youngster's left hook, and kept a tattoo on Ray's head and body when he could get out of clinches, that had Miller weak and weary at the close.

As frequently happens with punchers of reputations, both lay back from the very start, waiting openings for the heavy artillery.

Since both are counter-punchers and battle best when the fighting is brought to them, there were few openings and even less action. It seemed a relief to both to lean in close and slug at close quarters, out of harm's way in the matter of long shots.

Miller boxed prettily at times, jumping in with the same type of left hook that ripped McLarnin's right eye in their first meeting and ended the fray at the end of the seventh round. Jimmy had his defense ready this time, however, carrying a right hand high and devoting most of his offensive until the closing rounds to a left hook of his own.

CROWD BOOS EFFORTS

As the highly-touted youngsters fought this way through six rounds, the chorus of boos and hisses that started down from the galleries in the first round grew to a steady roar. The boxers struggled from one clinch to another, doing little damage but apparently trying hard.

Whatever break there was in the match came for McLarnin in the seventh session. He switched to a short body attack, plugging lefts and rights steadily to Miller's short ribs; then when Ray's guard had been lowered, Jimmy cut loose a whistling right to the chin, the punch caught Miller squarely, dazed him for a moment and started him steadily down hill.

From then on, except for occasional rallies, McLarnin did almost all of the forcing. He clipped Miller steadily in the eighth, boxing and punching with the freedom of the McLarnin New York fans are accustomed to see in action. Jimmy gained confidence and momentum as he clubbed Ray around in the ninth, and in the final session Miller was a week and weary lad. As the bout ended, the Irishman had him pinned to the ropes while clouts from both sides rained on his head and body.

Boston, Canadiens Resume Ice Series

MONTREAL, March 23.—(INS.)—The Boston Bruins can clinch a berth in the Stanley Cup final by defeating the Montreal Canadiens here tonight in the third game of the first-place play-off series. The Bruins, leaders in the American Division of the National Hockey League during the regular season, already have scored two victories over Les Canadiens, who finished the season in first place in the International Division. The French team must beat Boston three straight to reach the final.

The winner will take on the winner of the semi-final series between the New York Rangers, playing-through champions, and the Toronto Maple Leafs. The semi-finals start in New York tomorrow night.

LLOYD SAID TO BE GETTING HIS $12,000

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—Lloyd Waner is reported to have told some of his local friends that he was satisfied in his salary demands. There is a feeling here that the younger brother of the holdout act received the stated $12,000. Moreover, it is hinted that Paul will not consent to join the club until his demands are met.

It is hard to draw a line between George Grantham and Adam Comorosky, as the two outfielders hold to their terrific pace. Grantham won yesterday's battle with a homer, while Commy decided the contest of the previous afternoon with his third double.

Well, anyhow, it becomes more and more apparent that both Boots and Commy are important in the lineup. Swifted-footed boys who can hit are rare.

Fred Brickell's ankle is not serious, but he will be rested for sometime. An X-ray showed a negative result, the ankle having twisted ligaments or something of that sort.

Glenn Spencer, the last pitcher in yesterday's game, was struck in the pitching hand with a hot liner in the ninth, and it was feared he could not continue. The day was so cold that most of the pitchers had either changed or were in the clubhouse at this late stage. Manager Bush charged toward the locker rooms with a view of getting another pitcher ready, but Glenn was able to continue with the final round.

Nearly every game has been played under cool conditions but yesterday was so cold and windy that football would have been a bit uncomfortable to the spectators.

Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss left San Francisco last night, en route to Pittsburgh. He is expected to reach home Monday night. His dad will remain with the club for the remainder of the tour.

TISCH VICTOR OVER RODGERS

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Sammy Dorfman, East Side junior lightweight, in the throes of a comeback, lathered Dominick Petrone, hometown rival, with punches to win the decision in a fast 10-round match preliminary to the McLarnin-Miller fight in Madison Square Garden last night.

Sammy Tisch, of New York, 121½ pounds, won the decision over Jackie Rodgers, Pittsburgh Negro, 119½, in the six-round bout. Joey La Grey won by a technical knockout over Freddie Polo in seven rounds. The referee stopped the bout because of a bad cut on one of Polo's eyes.

SPROUT, FIT FOR ACTION, EAGER TO GO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—The cold weather attending the Pirates games has not taken much enthusiasm out of the Pirate camp, especially since Lloyd Waner reached the battle scene. The coming of Sprout was hailed with delight, the general feeling being that Brother Paul and his dangerous bat will soon be safely within the family circle. Lloyd today is almost ready to do his stuff; in fact he may swing into action for a couple of innings in this afternoon's game. The insertion of the little star in the lineup before the team departs from this city may serve as a tonic to the crowds, which have been remarkably small.

LLOYD EAGER

Lloyd was eager to get into action upon his arrival yesterday. The day was too cold for good baseball, but the youngster could not reach the park quickly enough to get into the battle togs. Lloyd indulged in a workout and showed he is not a great way off form.

The younger of the two holdout brothers did not give out much encouragement on the contemplated signing of Paul, the slugger. Lloyd, it now develops, kept his own counsel to a big extent in reaching an agreement with his employers. He said he worked separately with Dreyfuss and apparently he succeeded in getting a highly satisfactory amount.

GETS PLENTY OF ADVICE

Lloyd said he was given a lot of advice and there was not much harmony in the viewpoints that came to him, many of them unsolicited, presumably. In any event, he decided that inasmuch as he was the one most directly concerned, he would rely on his own judgment.

So it would appear that Brother Paul and B. Dreyfuss are still quite a distance apart. And it might be stated again that the Pirate owner is anything but pleased over the reported actions of Paul in giving his salary views to the press.

GRANTHAM STARS

With less than 100 fans looking on and with wintry conditions hovering over the city, the Pirates yesterday trimmed the Missions. The score was 4 to 2.

George Grantham was the hero of the contest. Coming up in the ninth inning with the Missions leading by a run, Comorosky was on first and none out. Grantham drove a homer over the right field fence.

The two tallies were followed by another run, which was produced on doubles by Stroner and Bartell.

Burleigh Grimes, Ervin Brame and Glenn Spencer were on the mound for the Buccos. Brickell remained on the bench with his ailing ankle, Carl Frey continuing in right field.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 23.—(AP.)—Bill Doak, pitching mainstay of the St. Louis Cardinals in the years gone by and made a free agent last fall by the Brooklyn Dodgers, has signed a Redbird contract here. The contract followed a conference between Doak and Branch Rickey, vice president. Doak arrived in the Cards' training camp yesterday.

DEMARCO GIVEN UNEARNED WIN OVER LAROSE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Cuddy DeMarco now is all even with the world. A few weeks ago, in the Moose Temple ring, he defeated Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, only to see the latter get the decision. Last night, in the same ring, DeMarco, fat and slow and flustered, and without his manager, James (Red) Mason, in his corner, finished on the short end of eight of the 10 rounds with Tony LaRose, Cincinnati southpaw, and received the shock of his life when both judges and the referee collaborated in cheating the visitor out of the verdict and handing it to him on a gold platter.

The world is that way. It evens up all wrongs in the long run. Cuddy was gypped in the Ceder bout and last night he squared matters by having his opponent gypped.

CUDDY FAR OFF FORM

It was a slow fight, with Cuddy far off form. In all but the eighth and tenth rounds, in which he caught up with LaRose and held him with one hand and jolted him sufficiently with the other to have him groggy in each of the sessions, the wrongsided LaRose maneuvered about the McKeesporter and stabbed and slapped him off with his right and occasionally drove home his left to the head or body, while Cuddy kept dogging his tracks and trying to blaze away inside. Except for his two lapses, LaRose was able to smother this plan of battle.

There were no knockdowns. DeMarco was off balance and slipped during the second exchange in the opening round, but was up in a jiffy. Oh, yes, there was a knockdown, at that—the odiferous decision at the finish. It was a knockout!

LaRose, who won with plenty to spare, although not officially, was not the lively fighter who battered Bobby Richardson into bloody defeat in his debut here last season, nor was he as bad as he was later against Rudy Ceder, who hurt him and made him take it on the run. As for DeMarco, he seldom has been as much at sea in a bout as he was most of the way last night.

Cuddy scaled 146½ pounds and LaRose one pound less at 3 p. m.

M'TIERNAN BEATS GUIDO

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, 153¾, outboxed and outpunched Young Guido, of Sharon, 154, in the six-round semi-final, but knew he was in a fight, for Guido kept battling along with him all the way.

Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, 122¼, was too good a boxer for Al Iovino, southpaw, also of Swissvale, and a former rival in the amateur ranks, and won the second battle, the fastest and most interesting on the bill. Iovino, who was seconded by Johnny Ray, kept going like a buzzsaw all the time forcing the fighting, but found Burns too well acquainted with his style to permit him to make much headway. Iovino weighed 118½ pounds.

Jackie Griffiths, Negro lad of the Hill, 130½, had the better of Johnny Michaels, of Swissvale, 134, in the six-round opener, but the judges disagreed and the referee's vote gave it to Michaels.

Eddie Kennedy was the referee and the judges were Frank Brown and Jim McLaughlin. Chuck Eberle was the announcer and A. C. Couch the timer. The show did not draw up to sellout proportions.

Ringside Stuff

Johnny Dundee, former featherweight and junior-lightweight champion, boxes San Sanchez in a 10-round bout at the Olympic A. C., in New York, tonight. It will be his three hundred and thirty-fourth battle.

There will be no boxing shows at either McKeesport or the Moose Temple next week because of the holy days.

Howard Mayberry, of Donora, has signed to box Midget Fox at East Liverpool, O., April 1, and Stanley Williams at Wheeling, April 8.

The entry list for the A. M. A. senior boxing championships at Motor Square Garden next Monday and Tuesday evenings closed with 120 mitt-wielders in line.

Tug Phillips, now making his home in Erie, boxes Eddie Reed, Philadelphia Negro, in a 10-round bout at the Auditorium A. C., Erie, next Monday night.

The Al Webster-Eddie Bowe bout at Johnstown, April 4, has been called off because the boxing commission refused to O. K. Bowe as an opponent for Webster, and, instead, a substitute bout has been arranged with Ike McFowler meeting Yale Okun in the main event.

Pennsylvania Railroad boxing and wrestling eliminations are to be decided at East Liverpool, O., today.

Johnny Smackey and Ken Hargrave have been matched for the six-round preliminary at Washington, Pa., Monday night. Scotty Graham will meet Nat Litfin and Young Gunboat Smith will oppose Young Andy Raddin in the two four-rounders. Leo Kyburski boxes Lee Sala and Allen Beatty meets Mickey Solmen in the two eight-round feature bouts.

P. A. A. NO. 1 LEADS LOCAL BOWLERS

CHICAGO, March 23.—Club No. 1 of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association topped the Steel City Keglers carded on last night's squad in the main event of the American Bowling Congress national meet here. The Eastern five totaled 2,515, which failed to win the club cup, a trophy donated to the highest score of the "club squad."

L. Marone was the best individual performer of the Pittsburgh A. A. delegation with 613, with which he anchored on Club No. 3. He had games of 192, 204 and 217.

Detroit A. C. No. 2 walked off with the club cup with a count of 2,740.

C. Geiger topped the Erie, Pa., rollers. A small game of 165 held Geiger from landing a higher berth among the singles leaders, as he crashed 229 and 212 totals in the other two games. In the doubles, with his partner, G. Martin, the Erie pair was high with 1,065.

The Metric Metal Works five of Erie failed to land among the leaders. A poor start, 797, followed by games of 935 and 907 gave the visitors a 2,639 total. Pittsburgh district scores follow:

Second place in the five-man division was won by the Garden No. 2 quintet, of Detroit, with a score of 3,018.

None of the leaders was displaced in the singles, although Dr. A. S. Adkins, of Gary, Ind., bettered the single game mark of the tournament by rolling a 289 score. He got 10 straight strikes and then left No. 7 standing, mowing it down with his twelfth. The previous high single game was 284.

Y.M.H.A. Five Meets Penn Quint Tonight

The Young Men's Hebrew Association basketball team, A. A. U. and Institutional League champion, will attempt to make it two in a row over the Penn Five, of the West Penn League, when the two clubs meet on the Y. M. H. A. floor tonight. The Y. M. H. A. came from behind Thursday night to defeat the Penn passers at Sharpsburg, the injection of Eddie Barmen in the last eight minutes of play, enabling the Bellefielders to get the decision. The winners scored 13 points in that time.

The local champs leave for Atlantic City next Thursday night, where they are scheduled to compete in the national Y. M. H. A. tournament on Saturday and Sunday.

North Side Community House will have the Penn Five, of Sharpsburg, as its attraction on the North Side floor next Tuesday night.

President Hoover To Attend Nat Opener

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—President Hoover has accepted an invitation to attend the opening game of the Washington baseball season, April 16. The invitation was tendered by Eddie Eynon, secretary of the Washington baseball club, who presented the President with a season pass.

Whether the President will toss the first ball in the contest, as has been done frequently by other chief executives, is not known.

Ed Roush Asks To Play With Rookies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 23.—(AP.)—By his own request, Ed Roush, veteran outfielders, one of the greatest fly-chasers of all time, has been assigned to the second string team of the New York Giants during the rest of the spring training campaign. Informed that he would not be in the starting lineup of the first-string team, the highest paid outfielder in the National League—$23,000 a season—decided that he'd rather join the rookies where he will be in the lineup every day.

STATE, NAVY BOXERS LEAD

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Penn State and Navy went a long way toward preserving their five-year monopoly of the intercollegiate boxing championship last night by qualifying 13 of the 28 men who will participate in the semi-finals of the meeting today.

State's entire team advanced to the second round while only Swan, 175-pound middle entry, failed to give the defending champions a perfect score in the preliminaries. Klepac, slashing and aggressive light-heavyweight from Western Maryland, accounted for the lone Navy casualty.

The University of Pennsylvania was third, with five survivors for the semi-finals. Georgetown and Western Maryland each advanced four men, while Syracuse had two.

Tommy Freeman Stops Kid Herman

ERIE, Pa., March 23.—Tillie (Kid) Herman, the Mexican welterweight, lasted only two rounds against Tommy Freeman, of Erie, in the scheduled 10-round main event here last night. After three knockdowns, two of which were scored in the first round, Herman's seconds tossed in the towel. He was badly outclassed and battered about the head and face.

The six-round semi-final between Johnny Piai, of Greenville, and Bobby Green, of Cleveland, also ended in the second, when Piai fouled his opponent. Piai was far ahead of the Fifth City boy at the time, but was wild in his attack. Piai also struck low in the first round, but did not injure his opponent enough to halt the bout.

Joe Corelli, of Erie, and Johnny Hahn, of Oil City, put on a smashing contest, full of free hitting and open swinging. Hahn had Corelli down twice in the second round, but the Erie boy started a comeback in the third round that ended in a draw decision.

Long's Sport Comment

and defeat men who had once knocked them out. Miller scored a technical knockout over McLarnin in seven rounds at Detroit last November 30, but last night Jimmy turned the tables and upset tradition, just as Ketchel did against Papke, Berlenbach did against Delaney, Hudkins did against Baker, Gans did against Erne and Maloney did against Heeney.

Jimmy McLarnin.

THE old fistic law appeared to be working with reverse english on this occasion. As a general rule, it is said, the man who has been knocked out by a certain foeman always dreads meeting that same opponent again, but last night just the opposite was true, for while McLarnin seemed to be trying his best, Miller just wouldn't fight. Whether the big crowd gave him stage fright or something else was wrong with him is a question, but he must have been off color for some reason; he could hardly have been so greatly overrated, for it took real class to win some of the bouts he had previously won in the Mid-west.

NOR is it likely that Miller was deliberately stalling, as he had been tentatively matched with Sammy Mandell for a lightweight title fight in Detroit and may lose that big opportunity as a result of his miserable showing last night. Mandell toyed with McLarnin and Miller probably would be even easier for him. Ray's loss of form is as hard to explain as that other problem as to why a meeting of two terrific punchers, a fight that seems certain to be productive of knockout thrills, and that draws a record house of $111,855 gross on the strength of it, turns out to be as tame and colorless as the Stribling-Sharkey thing at Miami Beach.

In winning the bout on points through the unanimous decision of judges and referee, McLarnin proved two things, besides giving the impression that his technical knockout at Miller's hands last November was largely a fluke. One is that he has enough general fighting ability to win bouts without depending solely upon a knockout, and the other is that he is no longer a lightweight. He scaled 138¾ pounds at 2 o'clock yesterday, which means that he soon will be found among the welters. With McLarnin, Fields, Thompson, Dundee, Hudkins and other boys of ability there, the division will recall to old timers the palmy days of 30 years ago, when at one time it boasted such fighters as Joe Walcott, Rube Ferns, Matty Matthews, Mysterious Billy Smith, Tommy West, Dixie Kid and others.

Downtown Team Sets New Pin Record

A record score for duckpins in tournament play was recorded last night when the Market Square Recreation team moved into first place of the five-men competition in the annual Nuss Brothers tournament in Homestead, with a three-game total of 2,744. Standing out for Market Square was Huck, who had a three-game total of 642 pins. The scores follow:

Huck	222	155	265

I. R. Mann, of Cambridge, captured the 120-yard high hurdles with G. T. Harper, of Oxford, second. The time was 15 9-10 seconds.

Oxford scored a partial comeback in the shot put when a heave of 41 feet, 3 inches by C. F. Gates was good enough to give the Oxonians a first place. R. M. N. Tisdall, of Cambridge was second with 40 feet, 6 inches.

The honor of scoring first for Oxford went to an American, as Gates who won the shot put is a former Princeton star.

Gar Wood After Speed Boat Mark Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 23.—(AP.)—Unfavorable winds and choppy waters caused Gar Wood to postpone until today his attempt to break the world straight-away speed record for motor boats held by his brother, George. A.A.U. Awaits Joie Ray's Testimony In Vain

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Members of the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association, A. A. U., waited vainly for Joie Ray, former American mile king, to appear before them and give testimony with regard to Ray Barbuti's charges that amature athletes were receiving excess amounts for expenses.

Joie had been invited to produce information in affidavit form after he had been quoted as saying that Barbuti's charges were true.

A "close friend" informed the committee that the famous Chicago runner, now a professional marathoner, had decided he would not testify. Ray prefers to be known as "Chesty Joie" rather than as a "squealer," this friend said.

DUDLEY SETS GOLF PACE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 23.—(AP.)—A steady brand of golf on the fairways overcame weakness on the greens to place Ed Dudley, Los Angeles, ahead of a field of 65 at the halfway mark in the 72-hole $15,000 La Gorce open golf tournament. Dudley's score was 68-75—143, his morning round having established a low mark for the day.

The Missourian was still well behind the leaders until the last nine holes, when he scored a 32 over the heavily-trapped course for a card of 75-71—146. Cooper had 72-74—146, while Burke shot a pair of 73s.

Elmslie dropped Collins out of the defeated class last night and forced him into his first defeat in tournament play over a three-year period, with a score of 300 to 232 in 28 innings. Arie Schaap, St. Louis, Missouri champion, dropped Walgren out of the same class earlier in the day by defeating him, 300 to 197, in 33 innings.

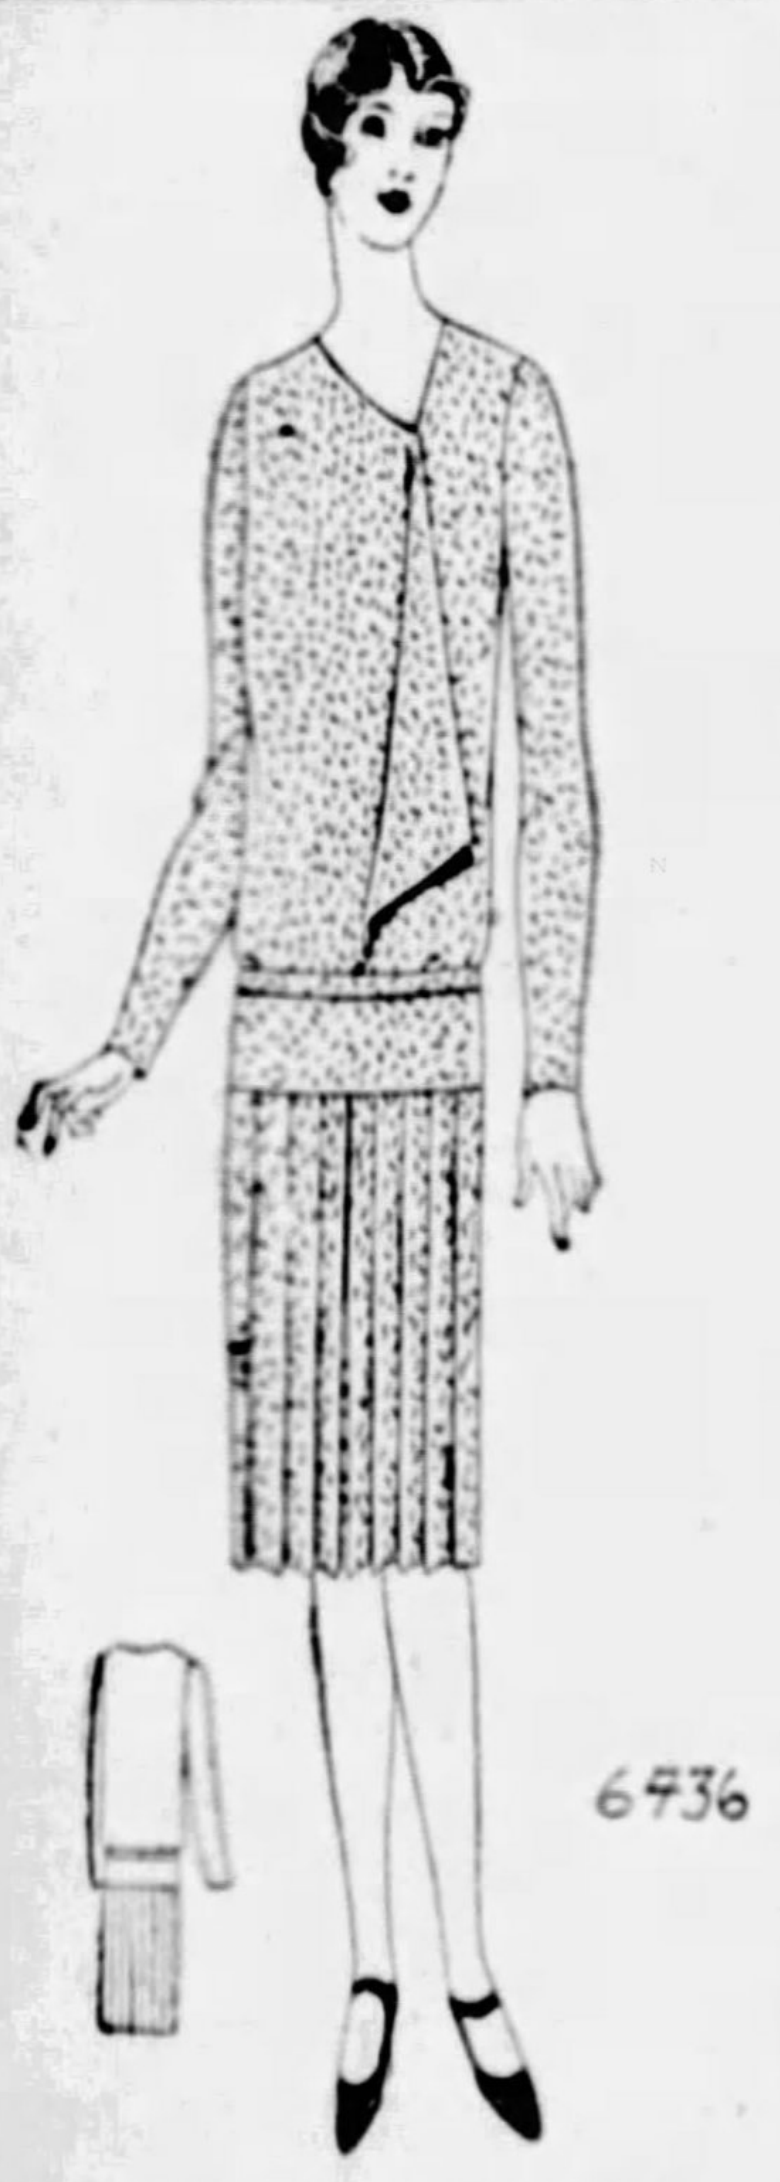
The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A PLEASING DAYTIME FROCK.

Silk and wool tweed, jersey, printed linen, or gabardine would be very suitable for this model. Silk crepe, rayon and pique are also suggested. The right front of the waist portions overlaps the left, and forms a pleasing jabot. Yoke portions in straight outline, hold the plaited skirt portions. The pattern for this design is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38-inch size will require 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plait fulness extended is 2½ yards.

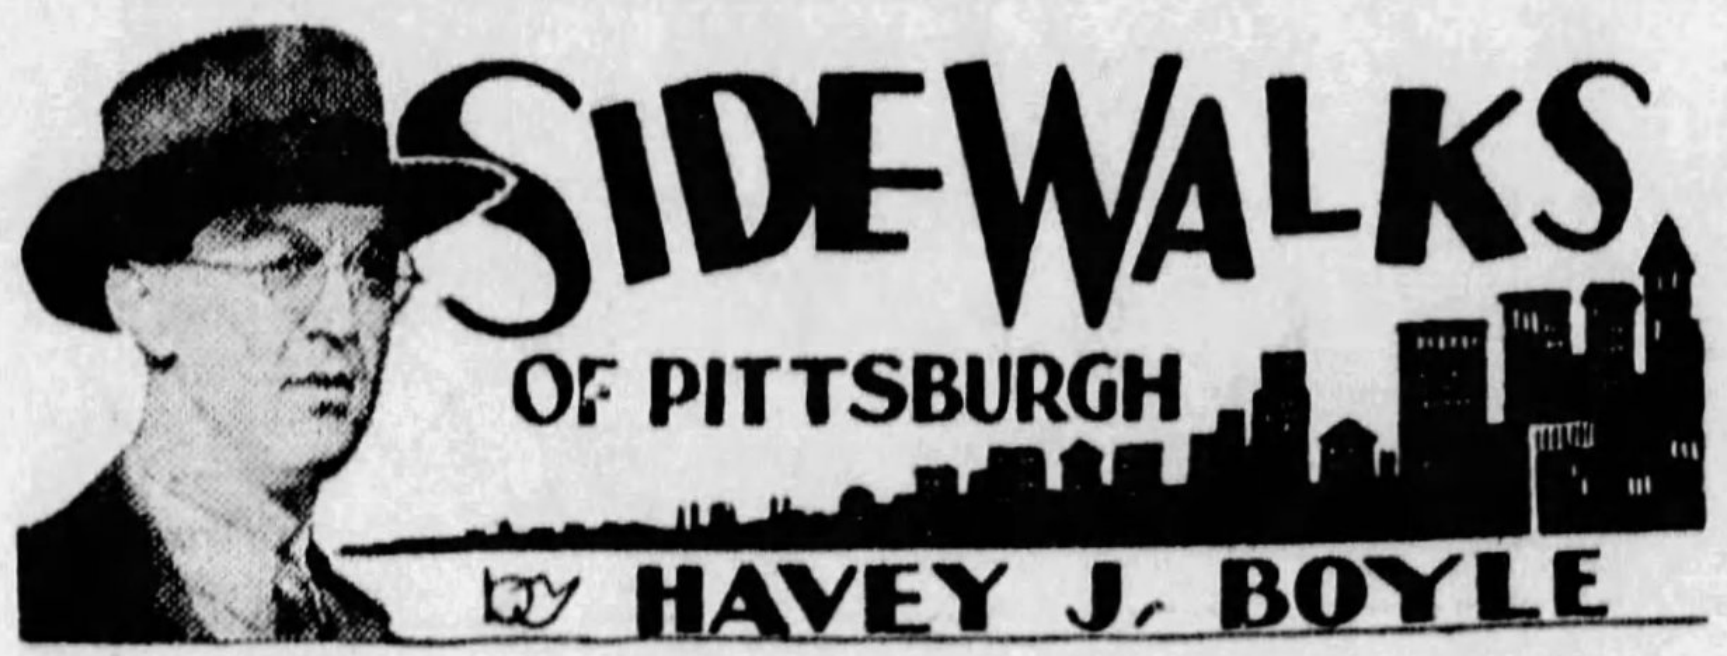
COMMISSIONERS TO ACT ON FORNEY REWARD



A RECENT column here about deaf mutes brings a letter from the Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Coakley to point out that the finest private oral school for the deaf is the De Paul Institute in the Brookline sector. This school, says Father Coakley, puts on plays from time to time and does creditable work.

A correspondent complains he is perpetually annoyed in cinema cathedrals by persons who are popcorn and candy addicts and who crinkle paper bags. He would have something done about it. Nothing, I am afraid, will ever come of a No Eating Candy in the Movies Week. For a great many persons that is part of the fun and no campaign would bring any startling reform. I am not one who would legislate against the custom.

I would support a city ordinance, however, that would force all persons taking wrappers off caramels in a movie house to remove the paper with one jerk. The present custom of removing it stealthily merely prolongs the ordeal. Most of the enjoyment coming out of the subtitle: "You are no gentleman, sir, or you would not talk to a lady in that fashion," is spoiled by the lady in an adjoining seat sneaking the paper off her caramel.

I THOUGHT everyone from Iowa went to Los Angeles, but here comes Harry Berlovich with information that there are 300 members of the Iowa State Alumni Association in the Pittsburgh district and that tonight these gallant 300 will honor Don Harrison, director of athletics at Pitt, with a dinner in the Faculty Club on the Pitt campus.

One of the most hospitable hosts is on the North Side, where he operates a restaurant. He is the town's greatest gourmand. It is nothing unusual for him to eat four and five dinners each evening. It is his wont to keep lonely guests company by eating with them. He orders what the guest orders. In one evening he may partake of a chicken dinner, a ham and cabbage special, a lamb stew and a few other full meals. He apparently enjoys the best of health and he is not overly stout. He is of Teutonic extraction and achieves that air of hospitality which nature has bestowed upon the Teutons.

I'M HUNGRY- ONLY HAD 5 MEALS TO DAY !
AW- THAT'S TOO BAD !

NEARLY all stories are old, and I suppose this one is too, but they continue to tell of the motorist who "broke down" on a lonely road and with his searchlight hailed an approaching truck. The driver stopped, handed the motorist an envelope, and moved away without saying a word. The motorists looked in the envelope and found $200.

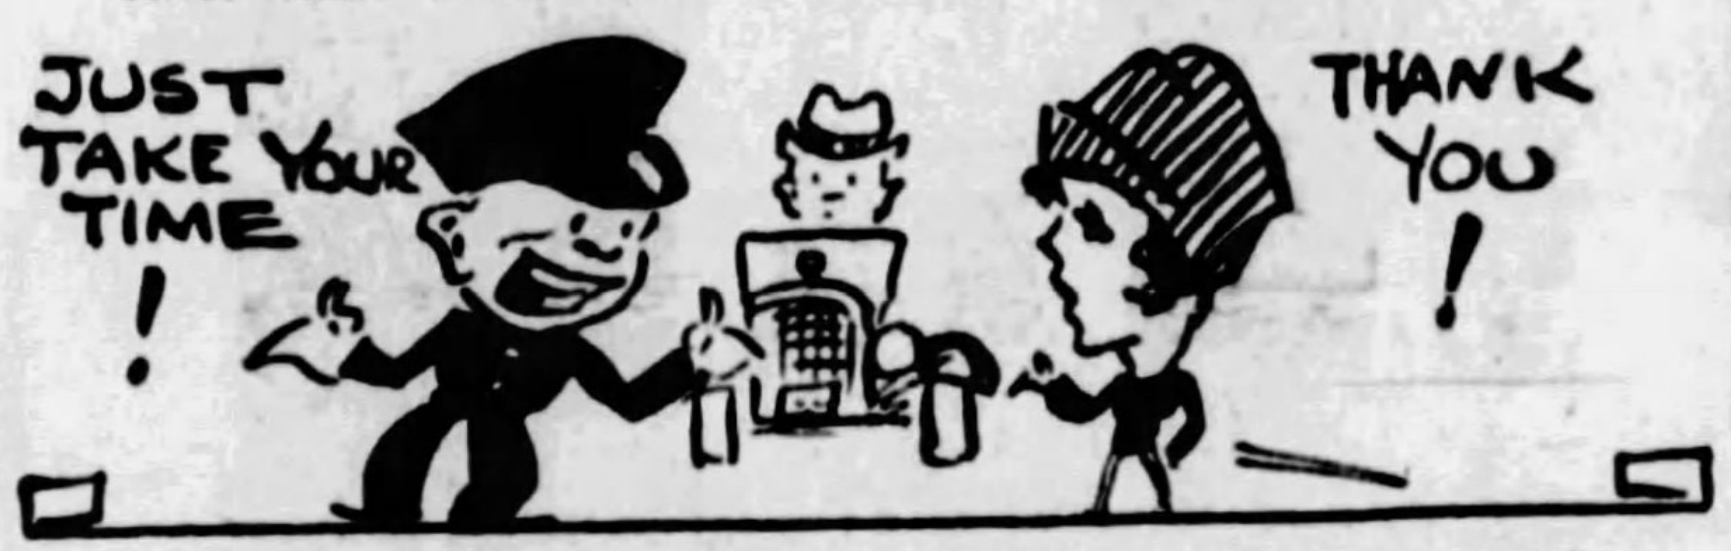
Observations Around the District: The pedestrian will find the most comfort in crossing the intersection at Sixth avenue and Wood street. At that corner there is a policeman who takes a real delight in affording rare consideration to his customers. His name is Albert Atwood. Curiously enough, his attention to pedestrians is appreciated as much by motorists as by the men and women on foot. . . . On the other hand there are corners where both pedestrians and motorists are treated like tiny worms. . . . Close to the finest road in the vicinity is the ribbon of white cement stretching from beyond Aspinwall to New Kensington. . . . New Kensington has an active Kiwanis Club. . . . It reflects the hustle of the town. . . . Who remembers the running races at New Kensington? . . . There was a place in the track which was invisible to the grandstand due to a knob of ground, and behind that knob the boys used to change horses, pull up the winner, and arrange the race in any way they saw fit. . . . At least that is what the boys who know the angles used to say.



JUST TAKE YOUR TIME !
THANK YOU !

Sues for $50,000 Fee In Grocery Co. Sale

Claiming $50,000 as 5 per cent commission on a $1,000,000 chain grocery business sale, the United States Realty Company has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Joseph Goldstein and other partners in the Eagle Grocery Company. The realty company contends that Goldstein authorized it to find a purchaser for the Eagle company on January 28, 1928, and agreed to pay a 5 per cent commission. The realty company says it found a purchaser in the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, but charges that thereafter the defendants dealt directly with the Kroger company and on August 1, 1928, sold that firm the business for $1,000,000 and has refused to pay the commission.

COURT URGES CAPTURE OF RACKETEER

County Commissioners will act early next week on the demand of Judge James B. Drew that a reward of $5,000 be offered for Alfred W. Forney, missing racketeer, it was indicated today.

Commissioner E. V. Babcock is out of the city, and it was said that the other two commissioners likely would await his return before taking up Judge Drew's request.

The letter of Judge Drew to the Commissioners, urgink the reward follows:

"Alfred W. Forney, under indictment on 16 charges of maintaining hundreds of gambling machines in Allegheny County, when called for trial on March 11, last, failed to appear. An immediate and thorough investigation was made, which revealed the fact that he had deliberately fled the jurisdiction, determined not to face the charges against him.

"On March 1 he was again summoned for trial, and having failed to appear his bond of $2,500 was declared forfeited and he was adjudged a fugitive from justice and his arrest ordered.

"Forney's case has received extraordinary attention from the public and the press, because of the character of the charges against him, and because of a very general feeling that he would not be compelled to answer in court for his alleged offenses. His escape seems to have justified this general suspicion. His flight is legal evidence of his guilt.

"Forney is now outside of the jurisdiction of this court, and it is not likely our city and county police officers will apprehend him if they are not assisted by the police officers of the country. The earnest co-operation of such officers can only be secured by the offer of a reward for his arrest.

"The public conscience is shocked by the brazen effrontery of this man. His conduct is an insult to our court. He has treated our law with contempt, and under these extraordinary circumstances it seems to me to be the plain duty of the Board of County Commissioners, in the fair exercise of their discretion, to immediately offer a reward for his apprehension If this is done I am certain he woll be brought to justice."

And by the way, airplanes have done some great and dangerous work down there.

A Mexican revolution is organized in the morning, and the retreat starts in the afternoon, and they capture every town they retreat through.

That's why they like to start as near Mexico City as possible and then have more towns to retreat through.

Felicia Tells Dick She Is Happy as They Plan To Be Married

CHAPTER XXX.

"LET'S get out of this!" Dick's voice was tense.

Fairchild, the attorney, was looking rather pleased with himself.

"Well, that went very nicely, Mr. Stuyvesant. I thought for a minute—"

"Nicely!" Dick's tone was agonized. "It was terrible—accusing a woman before a group of men! Good God!"

The lawyer patted Dick's shoulder. "Pull yourself together! You said very little against your former wife—scarcely enough for me to get your divorce for you. The decree nearly went in her name."

Former wife! Felicia shivered with relief. Then, as she looked at Dick, realizing the strain he had been under, her eyes grew soft with tenderness.

"It's over now, Dicky," she whispered. "Don't think about it any more."

"It's a ghastly business," he repeated, but he grew calmer as he looked at her. "You're a dear to come in town. But I knew you would!"

"Of course," she said simply.

"Let's get out now. I'd like to be a thousand miles from this courthouse." He smiled, straightened his shoulders, and held out his hand to the attorney. "Thank you for what you did."

J. B. and Adrienne Henley-Martin were whispering together.

"We have a few errands to do," Adrienne said, smiling. "You two won't mind if we leave you alone?"

J. B. grinned, and they disappeared.

Dick and Felicia moved slowly out past the pillars at the front of the courthouse, smudged all around at the height of a man's shoulder by the many kisses of the grateful divorcees, and got into the roadster.

"Well—so that's that, my dear." He took her hands, held them tightly for a moment.

She smiled. "Are you going to throw your wedding ring in the Truckee River? Everyone does, when they're freed, you know."

"I quit wearing my wedding ring long ago, dear. I wasn't even wearing it when you and I first met on the train," he told her quietly, and she abruptly changed the subject.

"Ann expects us for lunch. She's going out, but we can sit and talk in the living room. I'd rather, anyway, wouldn't you?"

Back in the familiar living room, where they had talked so many times, with the yellow roadster parked in its old place beside the curb . . .

They were standing, looking deep into one another's eyes, when Peg and Prof. Norton came into the hall.

"Hello, there!" Felicia called.

"Hello!" Peg was carrying a tennis racquet; her cheeks were rosy like the cheeks of a little girl who has been playing hard. "How's everything?"

"Oh, everything's lovely!" Felicia hugged her. "Dick's divorce has gone through, and as soon as we have things settled we'll be married."

"Oh, I'm glad!" Peg held out her hand to Dick. "Do you forgive me for dragging Felicia into that mess? It was all my fault. I was a mean little fool!" She faced him, honestly.

"'Of course I do!" Dick pressed her hand. "I think Felicia and I are both glad it happened, in a way."

"I'm not!" Peg looked up, shyly, at the young professor. "But I'm glad I know better now." Her knowledge seemed to have something to do with Prof. Norton; their smile was full of hidden meanings.

"I've got to run along, Peggy," he told her, but his footsteps toward the door lagged.

Peg looked at Felicia and Dick. "Oh—." She hesitated. "Wait a minute! I want to ask you something!" As they disappeared into the hall the living room door accidentally was pushed shut—or was it accidentally? Peg's confidence apparently was whispered if it needed words at all!

Felicia and Dick smiled, understandingly.

"Oh, everything does come out all right—in the end!" Felicia cried.

"You believe that now, darling?"

"I know it!"

Confident, happy, she put her hands in his.

She lifted her lips to his—and then moved confusedly away, as Peg entered the room.

"Oh, that's all right," that young woman told them, casually. "I was just kissing my own beau! And believe me, I'm never going to kiss any other man! Gee!" Her dark eyes widened. "Why should I?"

Felicia and Dick laughed at her, and Felicia pulled her over to them. The three were standing, arms entwined, when the doorbell rang.

"Hello." It was J. B.'s voice, and J. B., a flower in his button-hole, his hat set jauntily to one side, preceded Adrienne Henley-Martin into the room. He was beaming . . . the expression of the cat that has just swallowed the canary.

"What's happened to you?" Dick asked him.

"Well may you ask, my boy!" J. B. held out his right hand, his left grasped the hand of Felicia's mother. "Congratulate me. Adrienne and I have just been married!"

Dick wrung his hand; he wanted to speak, but sudden happiness choked him. Felicia was in her mother's arms, joyous tears glistening on her lashes.

Ann Hodge, hurrying in just then to call them for luncheon, joined Peg in congratulating the newlyweds, then turned to Felicia and Dick.

"Well," she said, "when are you two going to be married?"

Dick laughed.

"I don't know exactly," he told Ann. Then he turned to Felicia. "What are you doing this afternoon, dear?"

She moved beside him. "Marrying you," she said.

As he took her in his arms, the others filed out to the dining room, leaving them alone.

"Oh, Dick, I'll be so good to you! So understanding!"

"And I'll be good to you, beloved!"

Felicia's eyes were moist with tears of sheer happiness.

"Dick, can you believe it! We're free!"

Dick Stuyvesant laughed. "Free!" he echoed. "That's all you know! You're not free, Felicia—you never were less free in all your days. You're my prisoner — for life!"

THE END.

Daily Short Story

A Soldier's Friend

By EVELYN GORDON

BLACK coffee was responsible for my nominal acquaintance with young Squib Stein.

All the passengers had retired—except one. The stubs of three cigars groveled in their ashy debris beside me in the smoker; my own remainders. Opposite, the rubicund-faced officer, bemedaled and bebraided, fingered a coin. We were alone in the compartment.

"Have one of mine," I proffered my case for the military gentleman to help himself to a Havana.

"Thanks." The fellow seemed morose.

I lit my own and his. We puffed in silence. He slipped the coin back into its wrapping and committed himself to the pursuit of continued meditation.

"Been having maneuvers?" I ventured.

"No . . . a funeral."

"Oh, I'm sorry." Evidently a tender spot in the big fellow had been touched; some one he loved, perhaps. I resolved to hold my tongue.

Suddenly my silent companion flung his sober face up to me, and said: "It was the least I could do—for the kid." We must have covered a mile or so, then he began to talk in a rather flat, nasal voice.

"Since I was knee-high to a grasshopper there's been nobody to care a pinhead for me. No brothers or sisters or parents . . . and scarcely any friends — because I didn't know how to make 'em, I guess.

"We were getting into shape to send the boys across to France. I had a bunch of raw recruits in my training squad—all religions, breeds and colors: all sizes, shapes and manners—but there was one little Jew different from all the rest. He had quick eyes, darting, piercing eyes, a tall, white forehead and the curved nose of his race. It wasn't that he looked so different—but he was different. His topknot of black tousled hair reached just level with my shoulder. Squib, they called him."

The soldier pulled at his Havana a moment, blew a few spirals as though reflecting upon memories he hesitated to divulge.

"Squib was always first up. The boys razzed him for such early rising, called him 'that blamed mosquito.' He'd be up buzzing around doing a score of things for me that nobody else ever could have discovered doable—myself included. 'Anything I can do for you, Captain? Anything I can do.' 'Oh, go lose yourself!' I felt inclined to tell him. He was constantly beside me—under my feet half the time. I could scarcely move without tumbling over the kid it seemed. He bobbed up everywhere—in the least expected places: 'Anything I can do for you, Captain?' No matter where I strayed Squib was bound to be tagging along somewhere within call.

"At first I gathered he was bent on getting into my good books in hopes of promotion overseas. But after he realized that I was in the Reserves, that I would remain behind in camp to continue training recruits, that youngster surprised me by being more ubiquitous than ever. I simply couldn't shake him off.

"Of course I didn't give the kid much thought beyond mentally prophesying that if he bobbed up everywhere and as constantly in France as he did here in camp, he'd be bound to get his head blown off. The last few days before his battalion left I couldn't make Squib out. He never said a word, went mutely about his duties like a downcast dog. All the other chaps were trying to make merry having their last final fling—but not Squib. He hung around my tent continually, a morbid, melancholy spectacle."

"There must have been something on the lad's mind, surely," I interrupted. "Something he wanted to tell you and could not."

"Yes, there was . . . the day before the fellows left camp was a heck of a busy one for me. I hadn't seen Squib for quite a spell. When I returned to my quarters an attendant said, 'There's been a youngster hanging around to say goodby to you. He's been back four times, seems pretty anxious, says he's coming back again.'

"He came back . . . It was Squib. They let him in . . . The youngster's face was white and miserable, his eyes like great dark cherries were swimming with tears. He held out a box to me. 'It's candy for the boys—them that're hangin' around in camp till later.' It was thoughtful of the kid; none of the others had done a thing like that, and he was far from money-flush. I accepted the gift, said goodby and wished him good luck. What else was there for me to do? I loathed the goodbyes in the army—among the kids—poor devils.

"I pitched the box high up on a shelf—and forgot all about the thing. It was there for months . . . long after Squib was in the fray overseas. One of the chaps observed the box one evening, wanted to know what was in it. I explained my neglect and hauled the gift down for them to enjoy. They pulled the ribbon loose, lifted off the tinfoil and rapidly made off with the first layer of chocolates. The box was then closed and replaced upon the shelf until the following evening. Once more the lid was removed and a hand dived down to get the second layer—but it struck a tiny package. The thing was addressed to me. I opened it with a queer sensation of curiosity. . . . What could Squib leave for me? I wasn't anything to the kid, nor he to me. Inside the box was a shining ten-dollar gold piece! . . . This is it."

The soldier extricated the same coin again, and exhibited it before me. I looked into the big fellow's eyes—and they were misty.

"The kid — loved — me!" The big man said it softly.

"Yes . . . You see—he couldn't tell you—he was a soldier—and you didn't see!"

"It's the only—real affection—I ever had—I looked up to his mother; she was ill and alone. So I have cared for her wants since Squib—since the kid went west. She died three days ago; I saw she had a decent burial. It was the least I could do—after what the kid had given me."

The train rattled along over the rails. The porter switched off the corridor lights. The soldier stretched his lengthy legs and said, "Well, I guess we may as well hit the hay."

Weak After Operation

"About five months ago, following an operation for appendicitis I did not gain strength enough to be up and about. My mother and sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken five bottles and it has helped me to get strong so I can do my own housework now. I have recommended it to several friends who have been weak and rundown."—Mrs. Oscar Ottum, Box 474, Thief River Falls, Minn.

Litle Farm Aid Looked For From Special Session.

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE MIDDLE WEST, March 23.—

THE more I travel, the more convinced I become that the corner has been turned agriculturally. "Isn't agriculture looking up?" I asked one farmer. "Looking up?" he repeated. "How, by heck, could it look anyway else seeing it's flat on its back?"

Agriculture is still badly bent in many sections, but it isn't either broke or flat on its back. Its condition is improving somewhat—in certain parts of the country fairly rapidly, elsewhere slowly.

TAKE this statement obtained from Milton Toole, Jr., president of the Tootle-Lacy National Bank of St. Louis, Mo., it gives I believe, a picture truly typical of the actualities widely prevailing:

"Business conditions in the territory contiguous to St. Joseph, show continued improvement. Being essentially an agricultural community, of course, we are decidedly influenced by crop yields and conditions.

"The past year saw a bountiful yield to the farmers which they have been able to dispose of at good prices, and while in the latter part of the year there was an unusual decline in the price of cattle, yet the excellent prices which obtained in the early part of the year 1928 compensated for the decline.

"The one discouraging element in the situation is the fact that farm lands have not yet sufficiently rallied from the low point of the deflation period. Necessarily the recovery of prices will be a slow process, but present indications point to a material advancement and increased demand for farm property.

"The commercial situation is sound; stocks are low and houses are holding themselves well in hand; and I feel that we can confidently look forward to a fair year."

MOVING southward, I was particularly interested in one observation made by one of the most prominent bankers in the territory, with W. S. McClugas, chairman of the Commerce Trust Company, of Kansas City, Mo., namely, that the special session of Congress may "serve to clear up exaggerated hopes." With that I heartily agree.

MR. McCLUGAS very kindly made this analysis for readers of this column:

"Excellent soil conditions stand out in the business outlook for the Southwest. Moisture is more than abundant, giving great promise for the winter, wheat plant.

"Grain reserves, especially wheat, are much in excess of a year ago—so much so, in fact, that this factor is not unfavorable. In the aggregate, more livestock is on feed; therefore the farmers' income between now and the 1929 harvest should be equal to that of a year ago. A slight improvement is noticed in the trend of agricultural prices.

"I am not hopeful that legislation, which may be enacted in the special session of Congress, will cause any material improvement in markets. It may, however, serve to clear up exaggerated hopes. I anticipate little improvement in export demand for our wheat without a reversal of last year's world supply conditions.

"Industrially, the big problem in our territory is the correction of the supply and demand situation in the oil industry. Need of curb on oil production is apparent and recent development seems to give hope for its realization.

"Lumber is firm, but demand is not so active as expected. The lead and zinc mining districts are showing better tone.

"Our money market here, as elsewhere, is dominated by the absorption of funds in security dealings. Our local situation probably will move in sympathy with the general trend, although I am glad to report that speculation here has been, as compared with centers farther East, of little consequence.

"The price of credit for commercial and farm purposes remains firm, although our rates have not advanced in harmony with the precedent set by call money rates. Banks are lending at substantially the same interest as a year ago."

AS ONE migrates down the Mississippi Valley, more is heard of prospective expansion of river transportation. Big things impend.

ARKANSAS COMMON DROPS INITIAL LOCAL ADVANCE

Prices maintained a fairly steady tone in the short session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, with volume of business showing very little change from the average of the week.

Arkansas Natural Gas common started the day with a fractional rise to a new high of 5⅝ in response to the earnings statement showing a slightly larger net than the previous year. Following the early bulge the price sank back, canceling the initial improvement. The company reported 1928 earnings after taxes but before reserves of $3,045,385, as against $3,014,754 in 1927.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt developed noticeable activity and sagged almost a point before it met enough support to halt the reactionary movement. The company declared dividends at the rate of $1.40 annually on the present stock, which represents a split-up of the old shares on a basis of 3⅝ new for one of the old. Dividends on the old stock were paid at the rate of $3 a year. An extra of 50 cents was declared with the last payment on that issue.

The heavy industrial division showed only fractional changes from the prices prevailing on the close last night. Pittsburgh Plate Glass dropped back slightly on a small lot sale, while United Engineering, Harbison Walker, Liberty Dairy and Blaw Knox were unchanged. The new National Erie Company shares in the outside market sold again at 25¾, unchanged from the previous final. Initial trading in this issue took place Wednesday when the stock came into the market at 26. Western Public Service was steady around 26 as was Lone Star Gas around 71.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Further Selling Appears.

The market developed a lowering tendency in the late trading today following a mixed opening in which overnight gains of 1 to 2 points were offset by declines of equal proportion. Confusion regarding Federal Reserve Board intentions cause the selling in the second hour. Early reports stated that there was no meeting of the board scheduled, but at 11:45 a report came from Washington that Gov. Young had called a meeting. No further announcement was made. Offerings of stocks increased and most of the recently active leaders sold off sharply, some of them getting down to around the lows registered in yesterday's reaction. Street opinion continued to disclose marked difference of opinion as to the money situation. In certain quarters it was evident that observers were apprehensive while in other directions it was contended that the situation is not nearly so dangerous as some commentators would have the market fraternity believe. The net result of the uncertainty was to increase the general nervousness and cause more selling from sources unwilling to maintain the long position in the face of such a jumble.

Twenty-Five Cent Copper in Sight.

Another one-cent jump in the price of refined copper for domestic shipment has carried the metal within sight of the 25-cent level which had been predicted in trade circles as the goal of the recent upward movement.

The domestic price was established at 24 cents a pound, an increase of 4 cents in little more than a week and nearly 8 cents since the movement began in January, passing the previous 23½-cent post war peak attained in 1919. Copper for export is 24⅜ cents. With demand showing practically no signs of falling off prophets in the trade forecast the 25-cent level would be reached by the middle of next week. Producers were said to be willing to sell a comparatively large tonnage at 24 cents, but they were expected to continue their late practice of apportioning it among regular customers. That price was for electrolytic copper delivered to the end of July.

American Brass Company advanced brass products ¾ cent a pound and copper products except wire 1 cent a pound.

STOCKS CLOSE WEAK UNDER LIQUIDATION

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Heavy liquidation developed in today's stock market, carrying scores of issues down 2 to 7 points in reflection of the uneasiness created by the announcement that the Federal Reserve Board was meeting again in Washington. Fears that the board would take further action to restrict the volume of speculative credit led to an abandonment of pool activity and the lightening of many speculative accounts by small traders. Stop loss orders, which had been placed just below the market by nervous traders during the week, were touched off in large volume. Short selling was more aggressive despite the fact that the demand for stocks in the "loan crowd" recently had been of large proportions.

Motors were liquidated rather freely on reports that many dealers were over stocked with cars and that there had been a lessening demand for steel from automotive manufacturers in the Youngstown District. Selling of the coppers was inspired by unconfirmed reports that the new Mont Company had liquidated a large block of its Kennecott holdings.

International Telephone fell back nearly 7 points, Abraham and Strauss 5½, Curtiss Aeronautic 5, and Rossia Insurance, Vanadium Steel, Anaconda Copper and General Electric lost 4 points or more. Radio, National Cash Register, Goodyear Rubber, Greene Cananea Copper, Canadian Pacific, Shattuck, General Railway Signal and Wright Aeronautical, slipped 3 to 4 points, and the long list of 2 point declines included U. S. Steel Common, Kennecott, National Lead, Westinghouse Electric, Allis Chalmers, American Express, Dupont, International Combustion, Montgomery-Ward, and Calumet and Arizona. U. S. Steel common sold 8 points below the high price established Tuesday.

The closing was weak. Total sales approximated 2,000,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, March 23. — Despite relative firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations, selling on the part of holders of wheat continued here today in the early dealings. On the new downturns in wheat prices, however, standing orders to buy came into operation and brought about transient rallies from inside figures. Opening ¼ to 1¼c off, Chicago wheat later showed some additional loss. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting unchanged to ½ off and subsequently sagging all around.

Wage Trend Upward.

Extent of the wage earner's participation in the national prosperity is discussed in the current issue of The Index published by the New York Trust Company.

"In view of the 71 per cent increase in the cost of living in this country since 1914 it is apparent that real wages are 50 per cent greater than before the war and that this greater income has been accompanied by a decline of from 8 to 10 per cent in the hours of work per week," states The Index. "No other country has recorded an equal improvement in the laborer's condition."

It is pointed out that the trend of wages has been characterized by a slow increase from 1909 to 1914, a sudden rise from 1914 to 1920, a brief but marked decline, and then a steady increase since 1922. In general the rise in wages has particularly affected the industrial worker. While the average weekly earnings of industrial workers during 1927 were approximately 117 per cent above those in 1914, clerical salaries on the average were only about 74 per cent above the pre-war level. Since the standard of living of the average office worker is generally higher than that of the manual laborer, the former is likewise more apt to be affected by the post-war rise in prices.

From an international standpoint, the real wages of the United States are the highest in the world. Compared with Great Britain, for example, with 1913 as the basis of 100, the index figure for British wages in 1927 was approximately 189, or over 28 points lower than that for the United States, while the cost of living index is very nearly the same as for the United States.

West Indian Air Traffic.

An average of more than 50 passengers a day, totaling 1,540 passengers, were carried during February by Pan American Airways, Inc., the American international air transport system, as well as 14 tons of United States mail on perfect operating schedules on their new routes between the United States and Nassau, Havana, San Juan, Porto Rico in the West Indies, and the Panama Canal Zone, according to a report made today by James M. Eaton, general traffic manager of the company. This figure, due to the adoption of new schedules necessary to meet increasing passenger demand, represents a 95 per cent increase over the number of passengers carried during the first month's operations. Mileage operated during the second 30 days' operations to March 9 totaled 97,254, one of the largest operating mileages of any company in the world and nearly two and one-half times the monthly mileage operated by Imperial Airways, the English international system whose lines between England and France and continental cities in Europe have been in operation for nearly 10 years. Over the new Pan American coutes, which were established on January 9, putting into effect contracts awarded the company by the United States Postoffice Department, nearly 31 tons of air mail, aggregating 2,900,000 letters, have been carried between the United States, the Bahamas, Cuba, Haiti, San Domingo, San Juan and the Panama Canal Zone, over which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, as technical advisor to Pan American Airways, Inc., recently established the first regular service.

Prosperity and Credit.

The country is suffering from the expectation of too much prosperity, says the Union Trust Company, Cleveland. Reports of good business continue to flow in from all over the country. Employment and industrial activities are high, and earnings are large. "It is this promise of prosperity which is raising stock market prices to such unprecedented levels, and is in turn responsible for the diversion of a large share of our credit supply into the direction of brokers' loans," says the bank. "This in turn is increasing interest rates to such a point that the cost of credit may prove a burden upon business, thereby threatening the very prosperity upon which stock market expectations are based. The recent stiffening in prices of a number of basic commodities has given rise to the fear, in some quarters, that we are entering upon a period of commodity speculation. This, in the past, has often followed a period of stock speculation and rising money rates. The trend in this direction is most pronounced in the case of copper. Cotton and crude rubber also have advanced. Demand for basic products has been heavy and it may well be that price increases are merely a reflection of this demand rather than an evidence of commodity speculation. It is an open question as to how long the automobile industry can continue at its present record-breaking level. It would seem probable that as the season advances distribution may experience more resistance, and factory schedules undergo some curtailment. However, it is encouraging to note that American automotive exports in January were 48 per cent greater than one year ago."

Weather Helps Trade.

Bradstreet's weekly trade review says:

""The advent of spring weather, anxiously awaited for some weeks past, has been registered in a rather marked gain in retail trade; a very perceptible stepping up in jobbing trade at secondary markets, and many times mentioned increases in the speed of operations in factories catering to Easter trade needs. This has occurred despite continued complaint of rain and flood damage in the Southeast and Eastern Gulf States; a very high stage of water in the upper Mississippi and its tributaries, and a reiteration of reports of bad roads, especially in Central-Western states, where wet soil conditions are a bar to agricultural operations, as, indeed, they still are in a wide area of the Eastern and Central South. Collections are a shade better. Trade and industry alike return much better reports than a year ago at this date. Weekly bank clearings were $15,155,954,000, an increase of 14.1 per cent over last year."

Oil Curb Plan Progressing.

R. C. Holmes, president of the Texas Corporation, in a special annual report to stockholders, says there has been notable improvement in co-operative spirit in the industry and between civil authorities and the industry. In addition, he says the industry itself shows signs of substantial improvement. He mentioned as conditions requiring correction continued overproduction, wasteful production methods in some fields, multiplication of marketing facilities and forcing of fuel oil into the market in competition with coal at less than its value.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 23.—Cotton today opened steady at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 3 points. There was buying on relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of rains in the eastern belt, but the prospect of improved weather in this section brought in some selling. May soon sold off from 20.85c to 20.72c and the new October contract from 20.15c to 20.05c, with the general list showing net declines of about 8 to 9 points at the end of the first half hour. There was some buying on the decline attributed to covering and the trade, with the demand sufficient to give the market steadier tone at the decline. Private cables reported a small market in Liverpool with scattered liquidation absorbed by trade call and rebuying. Fair cloth sales were reported for Egypt and the Near East in Manchester. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 122,000 bales, against 99,000 last year and 180,000 two years ago.

LOSS CUT DOWN BY STANDARD PLATE GLASS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Standard Plate Glass Company realized less per square foot for its products in 1928, than it did in 1927, but operating economies made it possible for the company to report a smaller loss. Standard, in common with other makers of plate glass, has been suffering from keen foreign competition, while it has not had well developed side line products to compensate for the losses in the glass business.

Last year, after providing for depreciation, interest and all other charges, Standard lost $490,374. This compares with a loss of $517,580 in 1927. Earnings declined steadily after the cutting of plate glass prices early in 1925.

THE company has cleaned house so far as obsolete equipment is concerned, and a modernization program has been started which is expected to make lower costs possible in the future. The Springdale plant has been abandoned. It was found that satisfactory costs could not be obtained and that the expense of rehabilitation would be greater than the possible benefits. A total of $958,604 has been charged off the property account for this plant.

Production is being concentrated at Butler. Obsolete machinery and buildings at that point are also written off to the tune of $677,571. Directors have authorized expenditures which will fully modernize the Butler plant and place it on a competitive basis with other glass factories. After the improvements are completed, the capacity at Butler will be equal to the combined output of both original plants.

The improvements at Butler will be completed by June 1. The company has sufficient cash in the treasury to provide for all of the necessary modernization.

IN addition to these special charges against the property account, the directors took further steps towards the elimination of any possible water in the company's books. A total of $394,863, was charged off the value at which the gas properties at Butler are carried. This brings the book value down to the estimated realizable value of the properties. A loss on investments in affiliated companies and on the liquidation of branches, amounting to $169,805, also was charged off.

These deductions, together with the actual loss from the year's operations, totaled $2,691,218. At the beginning of the year the balance sheet showed a deficit of $462,977, so that 1928 ended with a total deficit of $3,154,195.

DURING the year an addition was made to the paint plant, which has doubled the capacity. Attempts are being made to expand the sales of this portion of the business.

The company is in a strong financial position, with current assets of $3,577,375 against current liabilities of only $373,525. In spite of recent losses, cash at the end of the year amounted to $323,159 and Liberty bonds totaled $653,895. The only weakness in the company's position lies in the fact that its $3,000,000 of 5-year, 6 per cent gold notes mature on March 1, 1930. Arrangements will have to be made at that time to refund the issue, since the company does not have enough working capital for this purpose.

DUE ot the decline of profits in recent years, unpaid dividends have accumulated on the 50,634 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock, amounting to $24.50 a share at the end of the year. On the 18,586 shares of 7 per cent prior preference stock the unpaid accumulations total $14 a share.

Physical properties, as a result of the drastic elimination of all obsolete equipment, were valued at $4,497,101 after providing for depreciation at the end of the year, compared with $6,563,806 the year before.

SEVENTH. The City agrees to assume and become liable for all damages occasioned by reason of this improvement by the opening, locating, relocating, widening, establishing or re-establishing of grades required for the aforesaid improvement o the Saw Mill Run boulevard, as shown on the plans as approved, between the terminal points hereinbefore mentioned. The City agrees that it will assume and become liable for all damages to property, including surface and sub-surface structures, caused by said improvement of the Saw Mill Run boulevard, including damages to person or property occasioned from any obstruction on said roadway or part thereof, not due to the negligence of the said County or its contractor or contractors. In case the City installs either water or sewer lines on this highway after the signing of this agreement, the City agrees to backfill the trench or trenches in a workmanlike manner and place any concrete over the same that may be required to reinforce the subgrade to permit the paving of the street. Where public service corporations or individuals open such trenches, the City shall require said corporations or individuals to backfill the trenches in a workmanlike manner and provide any concrete necessary to reinforce the subgrade to permit the paving of the street: or the City may require said corporations or individuals to pay for said work, which shall be done by the City of Pittsburgh's forces. The City agrees to relieve the County of the responsibility for the failure of any part of the paving of the roadway or any structures occasioned by the subsidence of any trenches opened by the City, public service corporations or individuals, whether said trenches are opened before or after the paving of this boulevard by a contract or contracts let by Allegheny County.

ELEVENTH. The City agrees to pay to the County the additional cost of backfilling any trenches with slag and the cost of removing and re-placing concrete slabs for pavement over said trenches, when trenches opened by either the City or others are found in such condition as to endanger the strength or stability of the work to be done by the County. In case such trenches are found, their condition shall be brought to the attention of the Director of Public Works of the City by letter, and if the condition is not corrected by the City within three days after the delivery of such letter, the County shall correct the condition and bill the City for the actual construction cost of the same.

AGREEMENT

MADE AND ENTERED INTO this .... day of .... 19.....; between the City of Pittsburgh, a Municipal Corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the "City," by Charles H. Kline, Mayor, and Edward G. Lang, Director of the Department of Public Works, party of the first part.

AND

the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, a corporation of the State of Maryland, operating the Pittsburgh Junction Railroad Company, party of the second part, hereinafter called the "Railroad Company."

WHEREAS—The City of Pittsburgh contemplates the construction of a relief sewer in the Thirty-third Street Drainage Basin, extending eastwardly along Thirty-third street and along and adjacent to Neville street, from Liberty avenue to a point in the vicinity of Cayuga street; and,

WHEREAS—The tracks and structures of the Railroad Company are located along and adjacent to Thirty-third street and Neville street practically throughout the entire length of the proposed relief sewer construction; and,

WHEREAS—In connection with the construction of the Thirty-third Street Relief Sewer, eastwardly of Liberty avenue, it will be necessary to cross under the tracks and structures of the Railroad Company, and parallel said tracks and structures of the Railroad Company in close proximity to same, all of which location is shown in red on attached plan, drawing No. 12879, Railroad Plan, copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof; and,

WHEREAS—In order to protect the tracks and structures of the Railroad Company, the said Railroad Company desires that certain portions of said relief sewer work shall be done by the Railroad Company and that certain portions of the work to be carried out by the City shall be done in a certain manner.

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH, that for the considerations hereinafter mentioned, the parties hereto do covenant and agree to and with each other as follows:

THE RAILROAD COMPANY WILL

1. Without compensation grant to the City easements for the construction of its sewer where same crosses private railroad property at the corner of Liberty avenue and Thirty-third street and at points between Thirty-third street and the Railroad's "High Line" in Neville street, all as shown on Railroad Plan No. 12879, as easements 1, 2 and 3.

2. Build the sewer for a distance of about 135 lineal feet from station 28 plus 35.42 to station 29 plus 70.98, crossing under the retaining walls and tracks of said Railroad Company's "High Line," including special work necessary to support said retaining walls and tracks, in accordance with plans approved by the City and under the supervision of the City. The Railroad Company to receive from the City a contribution at the rate of $125.00 per lineal foot of said sewer to apply on the cost of this construction as hereinafter provided.

3. At its own expense construct switchback arrangement shown in yellow on drawing No. 12879 and remove same on completion of the work, restoring streets and ways to their original condition.

4. Reimburse the City of Pittsburgh for special precautions to be used in the construction of that part of the sewer along Neville street extending from Station 29 plus 70.98 eastwardly for approximately 2100 feet, as follows:

(a) For additional sheeting and bracing	$ 7,392.00
(b) For bolting knee braces	1,890.00
(c) For concrete backfill	10,773.00
Total	$20,055.00

all as shown on Plan Access. No. D-3809, City Drawing, dated January, 1929, and revised under date of March 2nd, 1929, on file in the Bureau of Engineering, Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh.

5. At its own expense take up and relay its tracks on Neville street progressively as required during the construction of the sewer.

THE CITY WILL

1. In general, exercise all reasonable precautions for the support of the adjoining ground and structures, leaving in place all timber bracing and sheeting and having the trench backfilled with suitable material properly tamped, wherever said sewer construction adjoins or affects the tracks and structures of the Railroad Company.

2. Construct said sewer under the tracks leading to the Thirty-third Street freight house of the Railroad Company by the tunnel method, or in lieu of that, at its own expense support said tracks to the satisfaction of the Railroad Company's engineer during the excavation for and construction of said sewer. The tracks so supported to include any affected portions of the main lead track to the freight house, at or near the point where the City sewer turns across the Railroad "High Line."

3. Contribute at the rate of $125.00 per lineal foot toward the cost of the special construction of that section of the sewer to be built by said Railroad under its main tracks and retaining walls from Station 28 plus 35.42 to Station 29 plus 70.98, a distance of about 135 lineal feet as shown on drawing No. 12879 hereto attached and in detail on City plan dated January, 1929, as revised March 2nd, 1929, Access. No. D-3809.

4. For the remaining portion of the sewer to be constructed on the northerly side of and parallel to the "High Line" tracks of said Railroad, extending eastwardly from Station 29 plus 70.98, a distance of approximately 2100 lineal feet as shown on plan No. 12879, the City shall take special precautions for the support of retaining walls and tracks adjacent to its sewer excavation, as shown on plan Access. No. D-3809, City drawing, dated January, 1929, and revised under date of March 2nd, 1929, for which the Railroad Company will compensate the City as hereinbefore provided. The City will, however, at its own expense, put in bottom walers and cross braces at each section of the excavation where foundation is not in rock or hard shale.

5. The Railroad Company agrees to pay to the Treasurer of the City of Pittsburgh, within thirty (30) calendar days after the completion of all of the portions of the sewer contemplated in this agreement, the difference between the totals of the City's contribution and the Railroad Company's reimbursement to the City, as above provided.

6. The City is concerned, together with the Railroad Company, in the maintenance of railroad sidings serving industries on the northerly side of Neville street and to that end will assist the Railroad Company by the issuance of the necessary permits for occupation of streets and by using its influence with adjoining property owners to provide for the construction of a switchback arrangement of tracks, shown in yellow on said drawing No. 12879, so that during the construction of its sewer on Neville street, the Railroad Company may maintain service by track connections to both east and west ends of the Neville street tracks, portions of which will be taken up progressively during the construction of the sewer.

It is understood and agreed that neither the purpose nor intent nor obligation of this contract, if and when approved by the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in such as to impair or in anywise affect the exercise by said Commission of any of the powers vested in it by the Public Service Company laws, approved July 26th, 1913.

BUGS BAER Says

THE HORN AND THE TOAD.

JAY-WALKING laws prove that an amendment can be added even to a pair of heels.

Many cities have endeavored to classify pedestrians as vehicles subject to traffic regulations and similar delays.

"Bugs" Baer

But the jay-walker regards himself as an independent mechanism with a franchise entitling him to park on short notice.

The struggle for side-swiping supremacy has been going on for some time.

Who's winning? Well, you never see a truck with a hospital chart hanging on its radiator.

The only gleam of sunshine in the pearl of great price is the federal announcement that the American pedestrian is the most alert in the world.

Why shouldn't he be?

He gets the most practice.

The American pedestrian is getting intelligent. He walks like a frog.

After you have played tag with a ponderous tiddly-wink, weighing six tons, you do get alert.

So your U. S. jay-walker leaps all over the frenzied terrace like a moonbeam dancing on a wildcat's eyes.

He knows that the most dangerous niche in the Hall of Fame is the spot marked X.

When he reaches X he keeps right on bouncing to the end of the alphabet. He leaps from the eastbound curb like a sofa spring snapping when Bill Taft arises. When he reaches the other side he chuckles like a homing pigeon.

You have gotta act that way when the chauffeurs seem to think that self-preservation is the first mistake of nature.

A green light means go ahead. A red light means stop. And when you are caught between them, there is a coating of angel feathers on your tongue.

We admit that we are alert. And we are going to get alerter.

The constitution says the most good for the most people and leaves out pedestrians altogether. All our laws were made for a man on hoss-back.

We no longer wonder why the chicken crossed the street. What we want to know is how she did it.

Pretty soon, the accident insurance companies will no longer pay winning prizes on taxicabbed pedestrians and flattened citizens.

They will claim it is a natural demise.

When the boys miss us, they get even by tooting their bugles. With trucks, taxis, limousines and popular-priced Juggernauts all screeching their horns at us, we realize that a pedestrian is not a human being. He is a horned toad.

One Citizenship Lost Through Mental Attitude

For more than eight years John Taplocsanyi, of Hermanie, has been a naturalized citizen of the United States. Because of what Judge R. M. Gibson, of the Federal District Court, finds to have been his mental attitude at that time his citizenship has now been ordered to be voided.

The court has decided that the man was not at that time attached to the principles of the government of the United States as founded in the Constitution. The fact that he is not now attached to such principles has nothing to do with the decision, the opinion states, the order of the court being based on the failure of the man, as shown, to have had proper regard for our government at the time he became a humble member of it as a citizen. Belief in such government is a prerequisite of citizenship.

The evidence shows that in a letter to his brother, in Hungary, he had boasted of being a ''Red'' and that his highest patriotic feeling was directed toward the Third Communist Internationale, and that, hence, he had no intention, at the time of his admission as a citizen, to support the Constitution of the United States and its government.

It is a wise decision. The government, of course, must guard its institutions. It supposes that, as a matter of course, there will be division of opinion among its citizens as to its policies and even in the form of government and the provisions of the Constitution itself. This is reflected in political party operations and in amendments to the Constitution. It admits the right of citizens to make such changes in their country as they deem required, but properly demands that any man who would become one of us come in with allegiance solely to us, foreswearing allegiance to all other ideas of government.

If he does not possess such feeling he may be suffered to remain as a guest that we extend hospitality to, just as we welcome as guests in our homes persons whom we know do not approve our taste in wall paper, books, cigarets and radios. But if we know that, in addition to having an aversion to what we think is all right, one intends to wreck the place and make it over to suit him, we certainly shall not invite him to become a member of the family.

The question now is what is to become of this man, who already has forsworn allegiance to his native land and is denied the right of allegiance to an adopted one. That, largely, is his own problem, and it is possible that, in working it out, he may come to have a real feeling of high regard for the government under which he has opportunity that seems not to be equaled elsewhere in the world.

Any Acceptable Charter Means Progress at Least

Present indications are that the Metropolitan Charter submitted by the Metropolitan Plan Commission will not pass the Legislature. Excellent as it is in many of its provisions, it probably will not again get before the Legislature as a body. The committee to which it was referred, it now appears, will amend it. The amendment, according to plans now evident, is to be a substitute for almost all of the provisions on which the commission expended so much time. In effect, the proposed charter merely will provide for putting into effect the provisions of the charter amendment to the state constitution, leaving the details for future consideration.

That is hardly an ideal, but, at least, it is progress. Very likely it also is politics. Political opposition to the charter submitted by the commission, and by this we mean the opposition of political leaders, has been so outspoken as to assure that were the charter to come before the people as it now is, there would be against it the strongest political alliance possible. Political factions would be united on the issue, at least, and the people, as differentiated from payrollers and other followers of political leaders, would find that they had a real battle on their hands, a battle that almost assuredly would be fatal to any chance of success of the charter going over at the polls.

While we resign ourselves to the outcome of the hearing on the charter bill to be held in Harrisburg Tuesday, we do not see the death of hope. All that is good in the proposed measure, and that will be rejected now, eventually will be included. For the present we can demand that the charter form given us shall be such as to assure approval of the voters and that it does not contain any ''snakes'' that would make it as undesirable to the people at large as the commission bill is to the entrenched political powers.

For the rest we can wait without making a virtue of necessity. Waiting will give us more time to study just what we do want and give the people themselves an opportunity to unite on an ideal. The result will be a transition instead of a revolution, and we all agree that gradual changes cause much less disturbance in our affairs than sudden ones.

Noiseless Air Cabins

Good Flying Work by the Postoffice.

The Government Bureau of Standards has a plan to reduce noise in cabins of passenger planes.

Construction that makes conversation in airplane cabins possible also provides insulation, keeping cabins warm in cold weather and at high altitudes.

Figures now available show that in 1928 our mail planes flew a total of 8,270,081 miles, about 330 times the distance around the earth. Income of mail plane operators rose from less than two and a half millions to more than five million dollars, a good thing for aviation development.

If Uncle Sam cannot build airplanes on his own account—and judging by his performance with ships and planes in war time he probably could not—the next best thing is to reward those who can build them.

Tales That Are Told

Enemies Still

FOR years a bitter feud had existed between the Browns and Robinsons. The trouble had started through the depredations of Brown's cat, and had grown so fixed an affair that neither party ever dreamt of "making it up." One day, however, Brown sent his maid next door with a peace-making note for Mr. Robinson, which read:

"Mr. Brown sends his compliments to Mr. Robinson, and begs to say that his old cat died this morning."

Robinson's reply was bitter:

"Mr. Robinson is sorry to hear of Mr. Brown's trouble, but he had not heard that Mrs. Brown was ill."

The Man Who Got Away

A YOUNG man had come, on his sweetheart's advice, to "ask father," but had not met with much success.

"Do I understand," said the young man, firmly, "that you decline to allow me to marry your daughter?"

"I do."

"Sir! Will you shake hands with me before I go?"

"Of course," said the father, "and I'm glad to see you taking it so well."

"Yes," replied the young man, "and I'm going to send you a box of cigars. You don't know how near that daughter of yours was to having me hooked."

Pass Along!

HE was tearing down the street as fast as his legs would carry him, with the stout landlord toiling in the rear.

"Stop him! Stop him!" shouted the landlord.

A policeman made an effort to do so, but the man said something and was allowed to proceed.

"Why didn't you stop him?" demanded the landlord, on reaching the policeman.

"He told me you was running him for six drinks," explained the man in blue.

"So I was," said the landlord furiously, "he hasn't paid for 'em."

More Suitable

A YOUNG man bought a very old car. Informing his father of this fact, he said, "I say, dad, be a sport. I need one or two accessories to complete the car. Will you give me one?"

"Very good," said his father indulgently. "I'll give you a pedometer."

The son laughed.

"Why," he scoffed, "you've made a mistake. You mean a speedometer. A pedometer measures the miles you walk."

"Yes," said the father, grimly. "I know that."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a doctor that kidded his patient along until he had him really believing he was sick. The poor fellow stayed on the doc's list a year, and then one day when he come around for an examination, the doc says, "Why, there's really something wrong with you now. You were just imagining it before, but now you're run down from overwork and worry. You've got to quit for a while."

"Sure, I'm worrying about the bill," says the patient, "and I'm overworking trying to keep up the easy payments on it!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHAT a disappointment we must be to children!

There is a picture before me on my desk.

It is the picture of a little lad of two.

His face is as eager as a little squirrel's!

You can see the tiny, shy Self of him standing tip-toe, peering out of his brown eyes, on watch for joy.

Life is such an exciting adventure to that tiny Self—

He feels so friendly to it all, so willing to take part in it!

And that friendliness and willingness goes out in such a happy rush to Grown Ups.

He accepts Grown Ups with such loving confidence.

They are so strong—so wise.

They will explain the mysteries and go on adventures with him.

They will not cry—those Brave Grown Ups!

They will not hurt — those Kind Grown Ups!

What a wonderful time he is going to have with Grown Ups!

All these thoughts twinkle and gleam from that little face gazing shyly, trustingly, eagerly at me across my desk—

And, meeting that gaze, I could hang my head.

For I know how terribly we will disappoint him!

He will know so soon how stupid we are—

How dull and lazy and selfish and unfair—

How cowardly and unkind!

He will expect us to sing songs—

And instead we will wheeze about our livers!

He will expect us to dash gallantly forth to adventures—

And instead we will shut ourselves in closed rooms and play bridge or read stock reports and tell him to go away and not bother us.

And slowly, with bitter disillusion he will realize that we are almost unable to get any fun out of life in spite of our strength and wisdom.

What a terrible disappointment we must be to children—

I WONDER THAT THEY ENDURE US!

SPACE QUESTIONS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Is there an edge to space, or does it go on forever? I don't expect to get the right answer. There isn't a telescope built that can see that far. I only wish to know the theories.—E. M., Glendale, L. I."

"Since childhood I have had a question which still puzzles me. It is: What does the earth and all its surroundings rest upon? Some of my teachers used to answer, 'on space.' But when I asked what does space rest on, they said it was not known. I am sure an explanation would be appreciated by all your readers.—R. I. G., Chicago."

I WOULD appreciate an explanation myself. I can recall when I was but a few years old, putting my head between my hands with my elbows on my knees and trying to look off the edge of space, or to get a grip on the slippery idea of endless time. It all resulted in a kind of mental dizziness, which had the same mysterious charm for a boy as whirling on his heels until he fell down dazed. I imagine that the desire of some persons to get blind drunk has a similar origin in the hankering to pass out of limits.

There can be no consistent theory about anything that surpasses experience. No man ever lived who could figure eternity as anybody can figure a definite time extension, no matter how long it may be. People often cry out with regard to the stupendous distances and dimensions that are dealt with in astronomy. "Oh, that is too much for me. I can't grasp it!"

They belittle their own minds. It is as easy to comprehend a trillion as a thousand. You might go crazy over a trillion dollars, but it would be the details, not the immense number, that would upset you. But the real confusion comes when the number, or the size is imagined to pass all limitation. Then the mind cannot follow. An edge implies a boundary, and a boundary implies something without as well as something within. Here appears to be an inborn quality, or rather defect, of the mind. It is not capable of grasping endlessness of either space or duration. When it thinks concretely it always conceives boundaries for the objects of its contemplation. We are quite ready to admit that there are bounded things lying beyond bounded things, and so stretching away to what we call infinity. But the moment we try to concentrate attention on infinity as a thing in itself we inevitably clap boundaries on it as handles by which to hold the idea, which otherwise glides away into mental mist.

The mathematical conceptions of the four dimensioners really do not help in the least to solve the philosophical difficulty. When they talk about "space-time" as a substitute for space and time considered as separate entities they not only fly in the face of all experience, but they create a monster that the imagination is unable to bring to parturition in a world of common sense.

To say that the universe is limited, yet endless, is a vain flourish of mutually destructive words, as shown by the attempt to illustrate the idea with the commonplace fact that a sphere is bounded all around and yet one may walk straight ahead on its surface without ever coming to an edge. Suppose we grant that the whole visible universe is limited because of an inherent "curvature" of the "space-time" of which it consists, that does not shut out the possibility of something existing beyond the limited universe. If it is assumed that there is nothing whatever outside of this curious, crumpled bundle of "space-time," then everything must be within it, and yet it is said to be "limited," which means that it has boundaries, and this in turn means that it is only a part of something. The advocates of these novel ideas indignantly deny that they are metaphysical. But if they are not metaphysical, they are just as incomprehensible as if they were.

Bible Passages

A Psalm for Solomon

(Psalm 72)

GIVE the king thy judgments, O God, and thy righteousness unto the king's son.

He shall judge thy people with righteousness, and thy poor with judgment.

The mountains shall bring peace to the people, and the little hills, by righteousness.

He shall judge the poor of the people, he shall save the children of the needy, and shall break in pieces the oppressor.

They shall fear thee as long as the sun and moon endure, throughout all generations.

He shall come down like rain upon the mown grass: as showers that water the earth.

In his days shall the righteous flourish; and abundance of peace as long as the moon endureth.

He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth.

They that dwell in the wilderness shall bow before him: and his enemies shall lick the dust.

The kings of Tarshish and of the isles shall bring presents: the kings of Sheba and Seba shall offer gifts.

Yea, all kings shall fall down before him: all nations shall serve him.

For he shall deliver the needy when he crieth; the poor also, and him that hath no helper.

He shall spare the poor and needy, and shall save the souls of the needy.

He shall redeem their soul from deceit and violence: and precious shall their blood be in his sight.

And he shall live, and to him shall be given the gold of Sheba: prayer also shall be made for him continually; and daily shall he be praised.

There shall be an handful of corn in the earth upon the top of the mountains; the fruit thereof shall shake like Lebanon: and they of the city shall flourish like grass of the earth.

His name shall endure for ever: his name shall be continued as long as the sun: and men shall be blessed in him: all nations shall call him blessed.

Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things.

And blessed be his glorious name for ever: and let the whole earth be filled with his glory: Amen, and Amen.

The prayers of David the son of Jesse are ended.

Most God-Like Dower

THIS, then, is more than all the rest men prize,
Than any claims of Earth's most ancient race,
Than any pomp the potentates devise,
Or any wonders of a well-loved face.
For every race has had unworthy heirs,
The proudest dynasties have fallen to dust,
And Beauty's boasts will all become despairs
When ruthless Time has blurred them, as he must.
This, then, is more—the power that defies
Old Time and all the whims of chance and change,
The force that far beneath life's surface lies,
But dimly glimpsed as something vast and strange.
Most God-like dower, this, of all Earth's dream,
The will that rules, invincible, supreme!

George P. Knowitall

By Herbert Kaufman

EVERY egg except his own is rotten. Like a hen, you never hear him cackling over another fellow's work.

His coat of arms is a sneer rampant, surmounted by a hammer—the weapons with which envy and jealousy have attacked initiative, ever since the vanguard of originality dared to be different from the run of the tribe.

One of his forebears tapped his brow and grinned, as he peeped from the cave's mouth, on the Neolithic inventor of the wheel; then led the mob that stoned him for practising black magic.

Another grandsire proved that a hollow log could never cross a stream, until the first dug-out landed on the opposite shore—subsequently minimizing the achievement with the observation that "anybody could have done it."

And his kinfolk, unto the thousandth generation, have consistently derided every new idea from the bow and arrow to television.

He's a bear by instinct and heredity, forever short-selling innovation—a wet-blanket, smothering the fires of self-faith—a stumbling-block, always belittling what he cannot personally conceive, and discounting the brain-power of human derricks and dynamos.

Progress owes him a myriad grudges for the delays and detours he has imposed on civilization.

And even in this year of amazements, 1929—with Byrd's voice daily carrying from the South Pole to Manhattan; and Segrave's car, racing toward 250 miles per hour—there's a brickbat waiting at his elbow to hurl at the next challenger of precedent or shatterer of tradition.

His opinions aren't worth ear-room, because they're born of cynicism, not analysis.

His judgment is invalid, because its verdicts are delivered in the midst of trial and try-outs.

He's a member of every firm, board of directors and sales organization—a red-ink figure in finance and business—with no regular conviction except "it can't be done" and "it isn't worth attempting."

He hasn't a creative impulse, or a cheer of encouragement, in his whole make-up.

He flatters himself that he's a conservative, but conservatism deliberates and then takes action.

Conservatism is honest and open-minded—amenable to reason.

It weighs values, verifies facts, adopts policies and pursues them.

But George P. Knowitall is just plain Squirt—a cross between Narcissus and the Roman moron, who chatted with his friends at the Coliseum, and made the "thumbs down" sign without bothering to turn 'round and see what was happening in the arena.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 23.—Those lumbering block-long sightseeing busses which parked so impudently on prominent Broadway corners, while traffic czars bawled out the little flivver slow pokes, are not having such a sweet time of it since Broadway was cleared for theater traffic.

They had to get out of the yokel zone at the hours they collected the biggest list of pasengers. But they still manage to pick up enough fares to carry on, since banishment is an amazing study in the slick art of the ballyhoo.

One of their biggest handicaps was the feeling of self consciousness afflicting the first customer. It was discovered an empty bus could not be filled. Hence the aged "decoys" —gray-haired women who sit inside placidly knitting with all the Broadway hurrah about them.

The "decoys" are mostly character actresses at liberty. They are paid so much a sitting and naturally have little to do. The buses are filled by the sheer eagerness, which often becomes objectional effrontery, on the part of the megaphoning spieler.

He is a barker of the rowdy carnival type and is equipped with an elegant set of leather lungs, and is the sort for which you would rather enjoy arranging a little accident. He has a way of forcing the timid inside the wagon before they realize it.

The slightest pause in step brings him to your side with the alert jump of a cat to a mouse. And he pours a beguiling torrent of description into your ear while guiding you into his chariot. Most of his descriptions are so much hooey, but they do the trick.

He has his troubles keeping those forced to endure the long wait from demanding their money back. In this he proves himself a diplomatist. Once the bus is filled and rolls away, another rolls up and he begins all over again: 'Coney, the Bowery and Chinatown. First car going out!'

The average hero would have felt slightly put out had he selected a day recently for one of those triumphal rides up Broadway. The town had a sudden shortage of ticker tape. And ticker tape makes parades these days.

The last time we looked it up, there were four shops in the midtown section dealing exclusively in saxophones. They either hung up the shutters or moved. And no matter how disastrous it may be for the future of music, our chin refuses to quiv a single quiver.

* * *

New York has acres of Shops Nobody Sees. Yet they keep going year after year. They are in top floors of antiquated buildings and are distinguished only by faded gilt window signs, difficult to see from the street. They are dimly lit and display no show of activity. They deal in furs, old books, scalp treatments, antiques, electrical fixtures, glassware and such. Many can be reached only by long flights of stairs and are patronized chiefly by bargain hunters. Walk up Broadway some time in the middle of the street from Herald Square and gaze at the array—but look out for the cable cars!

* * *

In theater parlance Robinson Crusoes are "two on the aisle." And when an actor knocks on an actress' dressing room door his "Are you decent?" means "Are you properly dressed for me to come in?"

* * *

It is to be hoped the talkies will not for a little while anyway adopt the gypping box office methods that cost the legitimate theater much good will and patronage. They show signs of it. "The Broadway Melody," for instance, is an advertised $2 top talkie. Yet I could discover no $2 seats at the box office, but plenty for $3.50 at agencies. It is a bang-up production, and judged by average standards, the intelligent direction of Harry Beaumont and the superb acting of Bessie Love are worth $8 a seat. But in this stage of talkie experimentalism, such tactics won't do. A $2 seat holder has to sit so far back in the house he leaves with the key-hole squint of a house detective.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IF MARRIED couples must quarrel over their bridge playing, let them do it when there are no others there to hear it.

A quarreling couple in a party can spoil the enjoyment of everyone.

Those who have done much playing can bring to mind many occasions when embarrassing situations have arisen from husbands and wives disputing plays.

How foolish to permit a really unimportant thing such as a card game to cause cross words between a husband and wife.

But not only do married couples censure each other—often friends become caustic and disagreeable over a card table.

Enemies are made by women who are so intent upon winning the honor of top score that they apparently lose their desire to be courteous.

When any game gets this sort of hold on a person it is far from an enjoyable pastime.

Most good players think that those who are not proficient should keep out of the game with experts.

This is a pretty good plan.

It may save friendships.

It is a wise course for the inexperienced player who makes many plays that irritate the expert or near expert.
